Over Dutch-Occupied Guinea

Indonesia Chief To Decide 'War Or Peace' In 10 Days

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio indicated today that President Sukarno will decide the question of war or peace over Dutch-occupied West New Guinea "within a week or 10 days."

Subandrio told newsmen after a conference of Indonesia's top military policy-making body—the National Defense Council—that Sukarno "has come to the conclusion that at present there are still no signs that diplomatic moves can be of help in solving the West Irian (West New Guinea) problem."

Subandrio blamed the "vague attitude of the Dutch."

Sukarno heads the National Defense Council and presided over the meeting following a four-day speaking tour of the Celebes, where he escaped a grenade explosion in Makassar. He blamed the attempt on his life—the fourth in four years—on the Dutch.

"Within one week or 10 days," Subandrio said, "we will have arrived at a conclusion, and will have the certainty whether steps in the diplomatic field with the Dutch can be of help in solving the West Irian issue."

An Army spokesman announced during the defense council conference that Sukarno has appointed one of his top military officers, Brig. Gen. Suharto, to head the West New Guinea "Liberation Command." Suharto has been commander of the Army Corps General Reserve.

The Indonesian president returned to his capital from the South Celebes tour late Monday. Col. Yusuf, the military commander there, assured Sukarno before he left Makassar that he would "leave no stone unturned" in apprehending those responsible for the assassination attempt. Several suspects have been arrested, he said.

The explosion reportedly killed four persons and wounded 27 others, including an army commander. One of the dead and 14 of the wounded were children.

Although the Celebes, Sumatra and other outer islands were the scene of a determined revolt against Sukarno's rule in 1958, the president told a reception in Makassar that preliminary investigation showed "Dutch henchmen" were behind the latest assassination attempt.

"This is the fourth attempt on my life," he said. "I pray to God for His grace."

Sukarno looked composed at the reception, apparently having recovered from the initial shock. Aides said he was badly shaken by the blast. U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones, who was traveling with Sukarno's official party, said he "looked a little pale" afterward.

"Investigations indicate Dutch-inspired agents are behind this outrage," Yusuf said. "The aim of these people was to break the fighting spirit of Indonesia. This incident shows the cruelty of the Dutch."

Nearby when the grenade went off as Sukarno's motorcade passed was Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov, a member of Sukarno's party. He was not hurt and his car was undamaged. Titov looked relaxed and smiling when he attended a student rally addressed by Sukarno shortly after the assassination attempt Sunday night.

Couple, Daughter Move Into Trailer At Hammondsville

A Hammondsville area man and wife and their married daughter today were in temporary quarters in a trailer beside the charred ruins of their home, leveled Monday afternoon by a fire which was apparently ignited by defective wiring.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cronin and Mrs. Herman Howell lost all their clothing and furniture in the blaze, which left only the chimney standing at the homestead about six miles southwest of Salineville.

Bill Saltsman of the Salineville fire department, which dispatched two trucks and five men, said the home was virtually destroyed by the time the firemen arrived. A truck was also sent by Wells-ville volunteers.

Cronin, 49, who operates a sawmill at the home, said he was cutting logs in the woods nearby when he heard an auto horn and looked to see the flames sweeping the two-story structure.

Mrs. Cronin and Mrs. Howell—whose husband is in the Army in the Far East—were working in a nearby garage, assisting Cronin in his work.

Cronin's 1961 sedan, parked about 25 feet from the home, was scorched and windows and headlights broken by the intense heat, Saltsman said. Salineville firemen were notified at 1:20 p. m.

The family said part of the loss is insured. Firemen were able to prevent the flames from spreading to a nearby frame structure.

Short Funds Rumor Crops Up At Council

Unofficial reports of an alleged fund shortage in the city water department became part of City Council's official records Monday night in an exchange between Councilman Frank Duffy, a new member-at-large, and President Robert Owen.

Duffy, opening up the subject, asked a series of questions that Owen answered when no one else ventured a reply.

"It was on the radio this afternoon about the water works deal," Duffy said. "They claim they are getting calls from out-of-town newspapers and radio stations about the 'scandal' in the water works. He promised to find out the facts and put them on the air, but I didn't hear any more."

"Do you know anything about it?" he asked, apparently directing his question to the chair.

"No more than you do," Owen replied. "I don't believe anything's being kept quiet. There are no facts to disclose."

"The water department is being audited now," Owen continued. "When the audit is complete and a report is filed with the state auditor, the report will be made public."

"I realize there has been talk of some alleged shortages, some alleged mishandling of funds," Owen added. "We've heard all sorts of reports."

"The city government can't be run by rumors," Councilman Edward Massey interjected.

"Do you know the answer?" Owen asked Duffy.

"No," Duffy replied. "Who brought in the examiners?"

"This is a routine examination—it's made every year or so," Owen replied.

"They're going back to '58 or '59, I hear," Duffy said.

"If you want direct information, you would have to go to the state auditor, as his office is in charge," Owen said.

None of the other members joined in the exchange.

Berlin Crisis Discussed In Talks At Bonn

Macmillan Confers With Adenauer On Latest Proposal

BONN, Germany (AP)—British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan met with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today and informants said they would discuss a new U.S.-British proposal for an East-West standstill agreement to take the heat off the Berlin crisis.

Macmillan and the West German chancellor opened the first of several sessions in their day-long talks with only interpreters present. Their foreign ministers and other aides were to join them for lunch and an afternoon meeting.

No agenda was set, but Macmillan and Adenauer were expected to take up the British December meeting with President Kennedy in Bermuda, Britain's negotiations to enter the six-nation European Common Market, and Britain's desire that the Bonn government offset some of the $196-million annual maintenance cost of the 51,000-man British Army of the Rhine.

British officials said Macmillan brought from his Bermuda meeting with Kennedy a tentative U.S.-British alternative should current attempts to achieve a negotiated settlement of the Berlin crisis fail.

Adenauer indicated that present attempts in Moscow by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson to set up an East-West negotiation on Berlin are getting nowhere. This bolstered reports the Western Allies are searching for another way out of the crisis.

The reported U.S.-British alternative would have both sides accept—with or without explicit agreement—the present situation in divided Berlin, divided Germany and central Europe for the foreseeable future. Each side would agree not to resort to force and to avoid provocative actions in the two parts of Berlin.

Preview Of Message Kennedy Maps Program For Democratic Leaders

Cabinet Due Briefing By President

Congress To Hear State Of Union Message Thursday

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic leadership of Congress predicted today that the bulk of President Kennedy's heavy legislative program will be passed in the new session which starts Wednesday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy outlines his new legislative program today for Democratic leaders charged with piloting it through an election-year Congress.

Kennedy invited his party's chiefs for a breakfast preview of the State of the Union message he will deliver personally Thursday. Cabinet members were summoned later to go over it.

These moves followed unusual efforts by Kennedy Monday to enlist bipartisan support for his foreign policies.

A White House briefing of Democratic and Republican leaders of both houses on world conditions was supplemented by a more detailed rundown at a luncheon given by Secretary of State Dean Rusk for a bipartisan senatorial group.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who attended both sessions, said in an interview it seems obvious to him that Kennedy's batting average in the new session which opens Wednesday will be affected by international developments.

"If the world situation becomes more intense, it will tend to strengthen the President's hand," Dirksen said.

Others who sat in on both meetings reported that the administration feels it is holding its own in the never-slackening battle with world communism.

But as an indication of the conflict that may lie ahead on issues with domestic and foreign impact, Rusk was reported to have run into sharp questioning from Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., of the Senate Finance Committee. This centered on Kennedy's forthcoming request for authority to buy $100 million in United Nations bonds.

Byrd was said to have contended that the floating of the bonds, to be paid off out of U.N. general funds, would force France and Belgium to contribute to the costs of Congo operations—which they and the Soviet Union have declined to do—or to take the alternative of getting out of the United Nations.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., a Foreign Relations committeeman, forecast a row over the bond request. Several senators have attacked the United Nations' use of force in efforts to bring secessionist Katanga back into the central Congo government.

Frigid Blast Trails Heavy Snow In West

Both Wyoming And Colorado Hit; Storm Moves East

By The Associated Press
Bitter cold moved into Colorado and Wyoming today in the wake of one of the winter's heaviest snowfalls.

The storm which blanketed the two mountain states with 12 inches or more of snow Monday moved eastward into Kansas and Oklahoma.

Up to 6 inches of snow was expected in the Oklahoma Panhandle. Roads in northwest Oklahoma were icing. Snow in the Oklahoma City area was pushed around by winds of 28 to 35 miles an hour.

The storm, second in a week, pushed as far south as Amarillo, Tex. Blizzard conditions struck Monday night in the Texas Panhandle. At Amarillo the temperature dropped to 20 from a daytime high of 40.

More than a half foot of snow fell in western Kansas. Tribune reported 7 inches, Garden City 6 and Dodge City 3.

Some of the coldest air of the season swept across the northeast plains of New Mexico westward to the Continental Divide.

In Wyoming, the mercury fell to 24 below zero at Casper and Laramie and to 15 below at Cheyenne.

City $27,493 'In Red'

Finance Outlook 'Worst In Years'

Starting 1962 with the general fund $27,493 in the red, East Liverpool's municipal government is in the bleakest financial condition in years, Council was told Monday night by its new finance committee chairman, George E. Willshaw.

The black outlook results not so much from the overdrawn general fund as the fact that revenues will be down at least $123,000 this year—the result of the repeal of the city income tax at the November election, Willshaw pointed out.

THE FINANCE committee chairman summarized the city's fiscal outlook for the new Council at its first meeting, warning that Council "may have to wield the ax" on expenditures before drawing up the appropriation ordinance for the full year in March.

"If the former Council couldn't operate within its revenue, even with the funds from the income tax, how can we expect to operate without it?" he asked.

Although all other city funds apparently wound up the year in the black, the general fund was $10,384 overdrawn and there is an accumulation of $17,109 in unpaid bills dating back to May, Willshaw said.

The city income tax, collected from February to November, produced a total of $123,114, of which $53,000 was transferred to bolster the general fund, he explained.

GENERALLY speaking, East Liverpool's revenue in 1962 will be short by the amount represented by the 1961 income tax collections, as all the other sources of revenue remain comparatively constant from year to year, Willshaw pointed out.

Citing the list of unpaid bills for the last eight months of the year, he mentioned as examples that $357 still is owed for debts contracted in May, while $2,725 is owing on December bills.

"This idea of the city not being able to pay its bills is terrible," Willshaw told Council. "But if a cruiser blows out a tire in the middle of the night, the police can't get to a service station and

Pottery Fires 8 For Failure To End Strike

But Pickets Remain In Front Of Hall's Idling Production

Eight striking employees of the Hall China Co. were given discharge notices today for failure to return to work at 9 a. m. as ordered in a telegram sent them Monday afternoon by management.

It was the latest development in picketing of the East End plant that began late Thursday. Despite the firing of the eight, the picket line remained in place and the plant and its 300 employees continued idle.

John T. Hall, president of Hall's, said telegrams were sent yesterday to the four striking kilnfiremen and four helpers, directing them to return to their jobs by 9 this morning or be discharged. When they failed to comply, the eight were given discharge notices and final pay, he said.

Hall pointed out that the union-management working agreement gives an employer the right to discharge an employee immediately for taking part in an outlaw strike.

The strike earlier was declared unauthorized by the International Brotherhood of Operative Pottery, which instructed the men to return to their jobs pending settlement.

Temperature May Dip To Near Zero Tonight

If you thought it was cold this morning — wait until tonight.

The Ohio weatherman said the second severe cold spell of winter may bring a low of 5 below zero to 5 above tonight. That would be the coldest mark since Dec. 29 when the city had 3 above with an official rural low of 5 below at Millport.

The city had a reading of 10 above at 7 a. m. and Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport, recorded one above early today. The day's high may not exceed 18, the Ohio weatherman said.

The cold front moved into the Ohio Valley Monday night, accompanied by biting winds and snow squalls. There was little accumulation of snow because of the winds. There will be scattered flurries through Wednesday, which will continue cold.

Another Cited In Hancock 'Crackdown'

West Virginia State Police in Weirton continued a crackdown on illegal activities in Hancock County by citing a Weirton tavern operator Monday night following weekends raids on five other establishments.

Trooper D. L. Lake said John Nicholas of Cafe 22 was cited on a charge of possession of alcoholic liquor.

State Police visited eight Weirton taverns Monday night and came up with one arrest in continuing the crackdown on illegal sales.

Meanwhile, Margaret B. Watson, licensee of the Cactus Bar on Route 30 near Chester, posted $107 bond for a hearing Monday before Squire John D. Herron of New Cumberland.

She was cited Sunday afternoon by Hancock County sheriff's deputies and charged with illegal possession.

Back Where He Started

Owen Quits Council Post, Becomes Director Again

Acting out the last move in a game of municipal musical chairs that started Dec. 31, Robert Owen submitted his resignation as Council president today to Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and immediately was reappointed as safety-service director.

His action ended a series of switches from one municipal post to another that the mayor said probably is unprecedented in Ohio governmental history.

Until he resigned Dec. 31, Owen was safety-service director in the Goodballet administration. He stepped down from the administrative post temporarily in order to qualify Jan. 1 as Council president. At the same time, he became acting mayor, as Mayor Goodballet was out of town on a holiday vacation.

When the mayor returned over the weekend, Owen reverted strictly to the Council presidency. He presided at Council's organization meeting last night, then submitted his resignation to the mayor this morning.

All the moves were worked out carefully in advance after Owen, then director, was named to the Council presidency at the Nov. 7 general election.

His serving at the one meeting and then resigning leaves the Council presidency to be filled by appointment by the mayor. The city was without a director from midnight Dec. 31 until today.

Owen, an East End hardware proprietor, was the Democratic nominee for Council president when he was named director last

Pottery Fires 8 For Failure To End Strike

But Pickets Remain In Front Of Hall's Idling Production

Eight striking employees of the Hall China Co. were given discharge notices today for failure to return to work at 9 a. m. as ordered in a telegram sent them Monday afternoon by management.

It was the latest development in picketing of the East End plant that began late Thursday. Despite the firing of the eight, the picket line remained in place and the plant and its 300 employees continued idle.

John T. Hall, president of Hall's, said telegrams were sent yesterday to the four striking kilnfiremen and four helpers, directing them to return to their jobs by 9 this morning or be discharged. When they failed to comply, the eight were given discharge notices and final pay, he said.

Hall pointed out that the union-management working agreement gives an employer the right to discharge an employee immediately for taking part in an outlaw strike.

The strike earlier was declared unauthorized by the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters, which instructed the men to return to their jobs pending settlement.

Temperature May Dip To Near Zero Tonight

If you thought it was cold this morning — wait until tonight.

The Ohio weatherman said the second severe cold spell of winter may bring a low of 5 below zero to 5 above tonight. That would be the coldest mark since Dec. 29 when the city had 3 above with an official rural low of 5 below at Millport.

The city had a reading of 10 above at 7 a. m. and Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport, recorded one above early today. The day's high may not exceed 18, the Ohio weatherman said.

The cold front moved into the Ohio Valley Monday night, accompanied by biting winds and snow squalls. There was little accumulation of snow because of the winds. There will be scattered flurries through Wednesday, which will continue cold.

Locks Eyed To Help Curb School Thefts

A suggestion that locks be obtained for student lockers and a complaint of students roaming through the hallways during class periods were taken under consideration by the Wellsville Board of Education Monday night. The board also set entrance age requirements.

Richard Grills, board member, suggested the locks be purchased to "cut down on some thievery" taking place in the system. He explained the problem is not uncommon to any school, but that he feels it can be curbed by the use of locks.

William Ferrall and Russell Dyser, board members, both agreed with Grills. All three also complained of students roaming through the building and being on the outside during class periods.

Earl Bake, board president, said he had suggested that locks be used, but some of the administrators did not want them. He said they were used several years ago, but have not been used in the new buildings.

Other Actions Taken

Various complaints received by the members from parents whose children had lost books or other articles were reviewed. Grills said Wellsville does not have the problems some other systems face, but that action should be taken.

He suggested that combination locks be utilized. A discussion also was held on articles being taken from the lockers in the gymnasium. Dyser suggested both doors to the dressing rooms be locked after the students had changed into their gym attire and not unlocked by the teacher until the class was over.

The board agreed to give further consideration to the problems and to make corrections. A discussion also was held on disciplinary measures used by teachers.

The board established a rule that a child must be 6 years old on or before Sept. 15 to enter the first grade of school. A student entering kindergarten must be 5 on or before the same date.

The board has been moving the entrance date back from December a few weeks each year to meet the average over the state. Last year the entrance date for entering was Sept. 30 for the first grade and kindergarten was Aug. 30. Both were made the same this year and the rule will remain the same in coming years.

A discussion was held on the psychologist testing program in the system. Bake said the program may be carried into the summer months.

Dyser asked that the list of names of those filing a petition opposing a move to gain an easement from the city in Oak Alley be filed with the minutes.

He also asked that if any student is hit by an auto in the alley that all those on the list be notified of the accident. The board had asked for the easement from City Council in order to erect a safety barricade outside the side entrance doors to the high school and Beacom Memorial gym. The students using the doors step directly into the alley and are in danger of being hit by a passing car.

A petition was presented to Council at the last meeting in December opposing the granting of the easement.

Bake said he had met yesterday afternoon with the street and light committee, headed by Councilman William Stroble. He said Stroble favors the move.

The board had asked for three feet on one side and one foot on the other side of the alley at the doorways.

Councilman Dwight MacLean, also a member of the committee, did not favor the proposal, but did indicate he might favor a move to grant the school an easement to put a walkway along the entire length of the gym, Bake said.

Reappointed To Board

Mrs. Eunice Huston, 801 Riverside Ave., was reappointed to the Carnegie Library Board of Directors for a seven-year term.

The board voted to purchase a new mimeograph machine for the superintendent's office at a cost of $545, minus $15 trade-in for an old machine.

A leave of absence was granted Dennis K. Baker, science instructor, so he may attend Kent State University in April and May to complete his work toward a degree. Mrs. Marjorie Dyser will serve as a substitute.

Raymond S. Rolley, clerk, read a report from a boiler inspector on the new unit installed at McKinley School. The old unit burned out.

The inspector urged all automatic equipment be inspected daily and a record kept of the findings. He also urged that the automatic water feeder assembly be taken apart once a year for complete inspection.

Building reports were received from Garfield and MacDonald schools. As each principal is to submit a report, the board asked Rolley to contact them and remind them to have the reports prepared each month.

Rolley submitted the financial report and said it may be necessary to borrow some money by the end of the month. He said the state foundation check is due in February, but that he has received word it may be late. If this is so, it also may be necessary to borrow money next month, he said.

The board authorized him to borrow funds needed to meet this month's obligations.

The board agreed to have some cleaning done in the high school auditorium so class plays can be held in the spring. The students will aid in some of the work.

A notice was read from County Auditor Kenneth Bell stating that $1,122.98 will be withheld from the system's tax money to pay for its share of the November general election.

Woman's Husky Voice Warns B58 Bomber Of Fire

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Lt. Col. Henry Deuschendorf and his crew were bringing their eight-jet B58 bomber down at Carswell Air Force Base in Texas.

The weather was bad, radar guided his approach. Suddenly a woman's low, husky voice whispered a warning in his ear.

He looked, and sure enough, two engines had flamed out.

His crew had heard the warnings, too, in time to trim the ship properly for the landing.

The voice came from a little black box in the giant bomber's instrument panel. The eight-pound box, a miniature tape recorder, was hooked up with the panel's system of warning lights. When the engines flamed out, the box began playing a recording.

The voice belongs to Gina Drizin, a pert and pretty secretary in the plant where the black box was made—Nortronics Division of Northrop Corp.

Gina's voice was chosen primarily because it is low and husky.

"I've had no voice training," says Gina. "I can't carry a tune in a basket—my voice is pitched too low. But I guess that's why it was chosen—high-pitched voices fade out on aircraft intercoms."

Police Seek Identity Of Dead Woman

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Police today sought the identity of a 55 to 60-year-old woman whose partly nude body, which bore bruises and about 100 stab wounds, was found in a field across from the city dump on the North Side.

Dr. Harry Mignerey, Lucas County coroner, said the frozen, snow-covered body had been in the field near an abandoned airport hangar at least 12 hours before it was found Monday by a city employee.

Dr. Mignerey was unable to say immediately when the woman died, but he said it appeared she had been killed elsewhere and the body dropped in the field, not far from the former Electric Autolite plant.

An autopsy was to be held today.

USW Walkout Ends After 90 Minutes

CLEVELAND (AP)—Twenty members of United Auto Workers Local 1005 walked off their jobs at the Chevrolet Cleveland plant Monday night but returned 90 minutes later.

A union spokesman said the men had a grievance against a foreman in one of the departments. The rest of the plant was not affected by the walkout.

FCC Reads Riot Act

Boys' Radio Station Put Off Air Without Bong

WASHINGTON (AP)—The slightly high-pitched voice of WALE, "your neighborly station," has signed off without so much as one bong.

It was turned off, gently but firmly, by a grim-faced investigator of the Federal Communications Commission who read the riot act to its two operators—Bruce Wahl, 13, and David Lester, 14.

Its station was Wahl's bedroom; its commentators, engineers, announcers and disc jockeys were Wahl and Lester. Its range was neighborly—covering nine other houses.

The boys pieced the equipment together from old parts and went on the air a month ago from Wahl's home in nearby Falls Church, Va.

Every afternoon after school, WALE offered the neighbors a program of weather information, news culled from newspapers and music—"everything from rock 'n' roll to the semi-classics."

Any listeners? Wahl and Lester had no rating but Wahl said he knew that at least one family listened—"but they moved away after the first broadcast. Of course, they had been planning to move for six months."

It was fun. Until the other day. WALE had been on the air for about 45 minutes when Bruce spotted a man in an automobile aiming a device with an aerial at the bedroom window.

Then the man came to the door. "Are you running a radio station?" he asked.

Proudly the boys acknowledged they were.

The smiles faded when the man flashed a card identifying him as an investigator from the FCC. He said he wanted to check their equipment.

After checking the equipment—which operated on about a tenth of a watt—he sat down last Thursday with the boys and Bruce's mother and read a passage from a book. It was a copy of the Communications Act and it told how people operating unlicensed stations could be fined $10,000 or sent to jail for two years. Maybe both.

"Boy," said Bruce, "did we begin shaking like leaves."

So now WALE is off the air. The FCC is willing to forget the whole thing but officials explained there would be chaos on the airwaves if anybody could operate a station, even a neighborly one.

DiSalle To Take Cabinet On Road For 8 Seminars

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle takes his cabinet back on the road Wednesday for the first of a series of eight seminars to familiarize Ohioans with state government problems.

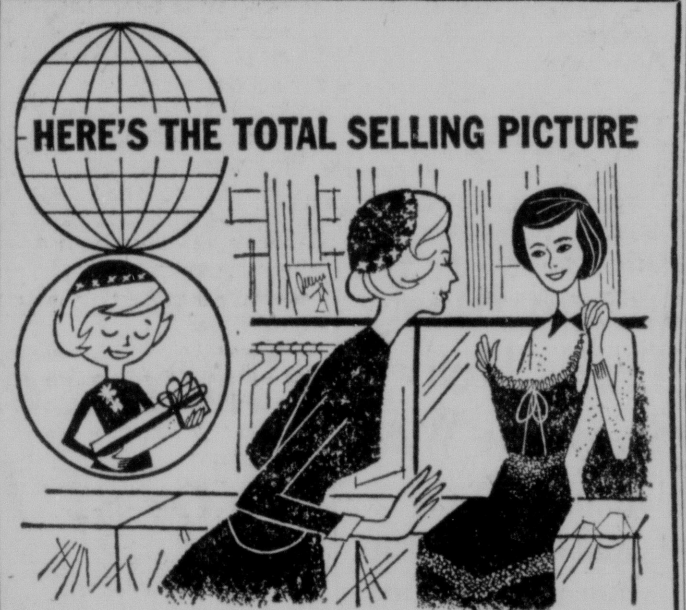

Wednesday the governor will conduct a day-long program in Dana Hall on the University of Toledo campus. The meeting will conclude with a regular cabinet meeting and state officials will be available for unlimited questioning from the audience.

Previously DiSalle has conducted more expanded seminars on the campuses of Miami, Ohio State and Bowling Green universities. However, those sessions were primarily for the press. The series starting Wednesday will be open to the public.

Other meetings are scheduled for Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Youngstown, Dayton, Canton and Akron.

Soviet Aide
Fails To Show
Up In Vienna

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—V. M. Molotov was not to be found in Vienna today, although the Soviet Foreign office in Moscow had indicated he should have arrived. There was the possibility, however, that he was stopping en route in Warsaw or Prague.

A spokesman for the Soviet delegation to the International Atomic Energy Agency professed surprise at the Moscow announcement that Molotov was resuming his post as permanent Soviet representative to the atoms for peace agency. He said Molotov "definitely has not yet arrived."

In making the surprise announcement Monday, a Soviet Foreign office spokesman in Moscow said Molotov left Moscow for Vienna by train "probably on Saturday." Departing Saturday, he would have arrived Monday.

Austrian police officials normally in charge of security for high Soviet resident officials had no word on Molotov's return. Austrian border police had no report of his crossing the frontier.

A score of newsmen and photographers were at the Austria-Czechoslovak border town of Hohenau today to meet the train that left Moscow Sunday. Passengers said Molotov had not traveled with them.

Molotov's journey to Vienna took on the air of secrecy that shrouded his departure Nov. 12 after Soviet Premier Khrushchev bitterly denounced the old Bolshevik as a Stalinist at the Soviet Communist party's 22nd congress in October.

Believed destined for oblivion then, Molotov apparently slipped out of the Soviet Embassy in Vienna by a side exit during a mysterious power failure in the embassy area and sped to the train station.

IAEA officials were as amazed as diplomats in Moscow by the Soviet announcement of Molotov's return.

Recorder Refutes Charge
Of Pay Raise To His Staff

County Recorder Richard G. Brian today issued payroll figures from his office to refute charges that big pay raises have been granted members of his staff.

Higher salaries paid from September through December actually represented reimbursement for reduced wages which members of the staff were paid from January through August 1961, Brian explained.

The recorder cited the pay rates of his office staff to show that virtually all now are drawing less money than in early 1961, part of a general retrenchment at the Courthouse because of reduced income.

Brian issued the explanation in an apparent answer to County Democratic Chairman Don R. Gosney, who said in a speech Saturday night that one GOP official at the Courthouse had given a big general raise to members of his staff.

In January, February and March 1961, members of the recorder's staff were paid at their usual rates, Brian said. Then on April 1 a salary cut became effective, but it was retroactive to the first of the year. The salary cut was decided upon as a way of reducing payroll expense in the recorder's office without any layoffs.

In order to compensate for the reduced salaries dating back to Jan. 1, the recorder's staff was paid only half the normal salary in May, Brian pointed out. The county auditor's office had pointed out to the office - holders that half of their salary appropriation should be intact on July 1 - half-way point in the year.

Tax Basis
Rise Forecast

BEAVER — The assessed valuation of Beaver County real estate is expected to increase between $4 million and $5 million this year.

An unofficial estimate has been made by Michael Van Doren, chief assessor, whose office is in the process of completing the 1962 assessments.

A $4 million increase would bring the county total to $267,528,586. The 1961 assessed evaluation was $263,528,585, an $8 million increase over 1960.

Part of this year's increase, approximately $800,000, is due to Armo's new plant in Harmony Township which was the only new taxable property in the county this year.

Beaver County and Aliquippa suffered a $700,000 loss by a razing project for a new highway but despite this Aliquippa has $33,000 in its favor.

The county total and district figures will be published after next Monday when the assessment is completed.

West Virginia Legislature
Waits Session

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The 132 men and women who make West Virginia's laws converged on Charleston today for what could be the most hectic 30 days in their political lives.

They assemble at the State Capitol Wednesday for the formal convening of the 1962 Legislature and to hear Gov. Barron outline in a brief address what he wants them to do during the abbreviated session.

Between now and adjournment they are in for a busy time.

Their major work was cut out weeks ago. And they will find it difficult to sidetrack decisions on several pieces of controversial legislation.

They will have to decide, for one thing, whether they should grant the right of condemnation of land for construction of a coal slurry pipeline from northern West Virginia to the eastern seaboard.

They will have to reappoint the membership in the legislative body. This will be most ticklish. Some of the delegates could be voting their jobs out of existence.

They will have to tangle with a tight operating budget for the state during the 1962-63 fiscal year beginning next July 1. And the recommended budget they will receive from the Board of Public Works will require extension of tax increases to make it balance.

Recorder Refutes Charge Of Pay Raise To His Staff

County Recorder Richard G. Brian today issued payroll figures from his office to refute charges that big pay raises have been granted members of his staff.

Higher salaries paid from September through December actually represented reimbursement for reduced wages which members of the staff were paid from January through August 1961, Brian explained.

The recorder cited the pay rates of his office staff to show that virtually all now are drawing less money than in early 1961, part of a general retrenchment at the Courthouse because of reduced income.

Brian issued the explanation in an apparent answer to County Democratic Chairman Don R. Gosney, who said in a speech Saturday night that one GOP official at the Courthouse had given a big general raise to members of his staff.

In January, February and March 1961, members of the recorder's staff were paid at their usual rates, Brian said. Then on April 1 a salary cut became effective, but it was retroactive to the first of the year. The salary cut was decided upon as a way of reducing payroll expense in the recorder's office without any layoffs.

In order to compensate for the reduced salaries dating back to Jan. 1, the recorder's staff was paid only half the normal salary in May, Brian pointed out. The county auditor's office had pointed out to the office - holders that half of their salary appropriation should be intact on July 1 - half-way point in the year.

Then $1,800 was transferred to the salary fund by commissioners to reimburse for part of the April cut. The $1,800 was pro rated among the seven employees in the recorder's office, boosting their salaries in September, October and November.

In December, the commissioners transferred an additional $518 to the salary fund, restoring pay rates to their levels of January 1961. This again was pro rated among the employees in their pay for the last two weeks of the year.

So, with one exception, the salaries of the recorder's staff now are below their levels of January 1961, Brian said.

The regular salaries in 1961 were: Deputy, $415; and clerks at $345, $360, $335, $310, $310 and $285.

The salaries for 1962 for the same employees are: Deputy, $395—down $20—and clerks at $325, $329, $314, $285 and $285.

In the salary cuts of 1961, for instance, the deputy was dropped from $415 to $396. The deputy was paid $396 in April, June, July and August. To help cover the retroactive cut, the deputy was paid only $198 in May.

When the first $1,800 was transferred to the salary fund, the deputy was paid $460 in September, October and November. On the Dec. 15 payroll, the deputy was paid $230. After the supplemental payroll appropriation was made, the deputy received $311 for the last pay period of December.

Brian emphasized that the payroll figures quoted by Gosney were not the amounts regularly paid his employees, but the amounts they were paid in December to compensate them for earlier cuts.

Brian said a similar procedure was followed in some of the other Courthouse offices.

Tax Basis Rise Forecast

BEAVER — The assessed valuation of Beaver County real estate is expected to increase between $4 million and $5 million this year.

An unofficial estimate has been made by Michael Van Doren, chief assessor, whose office is in the process of completing the 1962 assessments.

A $4 million increase would bring the county total to $267,528,586. The 1961 assessed evaluation was $263,528,585, an $8 million increase over 1960.

Part of this year's increase, approximately $800,000, is due to Armo's new plant in Harmony Township which was the only big new taxable property in the county this year.

Beaver County and Aliquippa suffered a $700,000 loss by a razing project for a new highway but despite this Aliquippa has $33,000 in its favor.

The county total and district figures will be published after next Monday when the assessment is completed.

West Virginia Legislature Waits Session

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The 132 men and women who make West Virginia's laws converged on Charleston today for what could be the most hectic 30 days in their political lives.

They assemble at the State Capitol Wednesday for the formal convening of the 1962 Legislature and to hear Gov. Barron outline in a brief address what he wants them to do during the abbreviated session.

Between now and adjournment they are in for a busy time.

Their major work was cut out weeks ago. And they will find it difficult to sidetrack decisions on several pieces of controversial legislation.

They will have to decide, for one thing, whether they should grant the right of condemnation of land for construction of a coal slurry pipeline from northern West Virginia to the eastern seaboard.

They will have to reappoint the membership in the legislative body. This will be most ticklish. Some of the delegates could be voting their jobs out of existence.

They will have to tangle with a tight operating budget for the state during the 1962-63 fiscal year beginning next July 1. And the recommended budget they will receive from the Board of Public Works will require extension of tax increases to make it balance.

The Military Diehards Of France

It would be bad taste to look for likenesses between the military diehards of France and militarists at odds with the government of the United States. There aren't even any superficial resemblances.

The French irreconcilables have taken their position on a concrete issue — the question of what is going to happen in Algeria. There is no concrete issue in the United States.

The French generals are in a head-on clash of national policy with the president of the French Republic, Gen. Charles DeGaulle, who in his own way has been just as stiff-necked about what he stood for as they have been on the question of Algeria.

At stake in their showdown with President De Gaulle is an important section of French soil populated with an important fraction of the citizenry of France — elements of such tremendous value to the republic that France has been bleeding itself to death in an effort to save them by force.

But the French president, a notable man of force in his own right, has taken personal responsibility for bringing about a reconciliation with the Moslems in Algeria. He has done everything in his power to do this in a manner that would make it possible for Frenchmen in both France and Algeria to live in friendship with the Moslems after they had been granted sovereignty in Algeria. De Gaulle has become civil-minded while his one-time associates have remained military-minded.

The outcome still hangs in the balance.

But the balance will be overturned in favor of continuing what has become a hopeless war to subdue Algerian Moslems if the military irreconcilables have their way. No one questions their determination.

They will try to overthrow the De Gaulle government; they have tried before.

They will try to murder the president of France; they have tried it before.

They will try to sacrifice France to their implacable will; they have convinced themselves they are more important than France; they feel they are, in fact, France.

They have taken a position that forces their opponents to become as irreconcilable as they are — a position of kill or be killed. There is no peace to be made with them. They will not come to terms. They will have to be destroyed, or they will be the destroyers.

All this is happening at a time when France is enjoying great prosperity — a dramatic example of the dichotomy that makes it possible for Frenchmen to divide themselves between economic existence and political existence. It is as though "business as usual" in France included riots in the streets.

The military diehards of France are a blunt reminder of what happens when the military mind ranks itself above the civil mind in political affairs. Unconditional surrendering and battling it out to the death are questionable even in military tactics. In civil government they're absurd.

Sukarno Shouldn't Say It

"We don't care about international opinion," President Sukarno of Indonesia told a native audience.

This answered the certainty of criticism if Indonesian troops carried out his threat to seize West New Guinea unless the Dutch handed it over.

Sukarno should not have said it. It's true.

Prime Minister Nehru and his adviser Krishna Menon didn't care about international opinion when they gave the order to invade Portugal's three enclaves inside Indian territory.

The Soviet Union didn't care about opinion when it sent tanks into Hungarian cities to put down a popular uprising.

Egypt didn't care about opinion when it seized the Suez Canal. Neither did Britain, France and Israel when they retaliated.

The United States didn't care what was going to be said when it sent Marines to Lebanon in 1958.

And the United States won't care what will be said if it finally is forced to lance the Communist boil in Cuba with military force.

It will do what it thinks needs to be done under the circumstances.

It will be as coldly realistic about the expediency of its own policy as it recently thought the United Nations should be about its policy in the Congo, when realists on the scene said secessionist Katanga Province had to be brought into line.

It will be as forthright as it was when it sent the U.S. Navy to cool off would-be revolutionists in the Dominican Republic.

All that Sukarno of Indonesia has done is to say bluntly what many others have been saying behind their hand. The world cannot be barred from the use of force by pious resolutions.

Sticks and stones can break their bones, but words cannot hurt them—not even the castigating words uttered in the U.N. General Assembly—not even the scathing condemnation of editorialists in the American press—not even the hard-bitten censure of international moralists who want so desperately to believe in moral judgment they cannot understand why moral judgment cannot stay the hand of necessity in a showdown.

President Sukarno should never have said that Indonesia doesn't care about international opinion. It was a harsh revelation after many years of wishful thinking which suggested that sticks and stones had gone out of style and henceforth words alone would stay the hand of "aggressors."

After-Thoughts

Five taverns were raided in Hancock County by West Virginia State Police over the weekend, with citations following.

With the background of similar raids in mind, it becomes increasingly difficult to reflect with sound judgment on each succeeding one.

The thought occurred that it might be interesting to consider such raids from the viewpoint of others, something like this:

Comedian Jerry Lewis—"Are you for real?"

Any tavern operator—"You've Got Me Cryin' Again."

The late composer Jerome Kern—"Only make believe!"

Teen-age bystander—"The same old story with a new twist."

Any barbershop quartet—"There is a tavern in the town."

And finally, the prophetic words of Abraham Lincoln—"You can fool some of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

Well Worth Looking Into

A report from New Delhi last week said India's Prime Minister Nehru had warned his countrymen not to believe in mystics who predict and rationalize according to the stars.

One of them had explained the takeover of Goa and those other two Portuguese enclaves by the stars. The idea, said the mystic, was that the Nehru government had no choice. The stars had predetermined the decision. It wasn't Krishna Menon's idea after all.

There are possibilities here worth looking into.

Prime Minister Nehru should think long before he pooh-poohs mysticism. There is no future in logicity, as every well-schooled mystic knows.

The trouble with logicity is that every person who calls himself logical is bound by the same rules and is expected to think the same way. For example, there is supposedly only one logical explanation for every occurrence and one logical cause for every result.

The Once Over

New York has a new expert to straighten out its traffic. He ate a hearty breakfast, insisted he was innocent and said firmly "I am ready."

Henry A. Barnes left top Baltimore traffic post to take command of Gotham war against chaos, indifference, driver madness and problem that won't go away. He is bravest invader of North since Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson. Mr. Barnes insists he is not doing it in hope of an offer from Hollywood for a role "doubling" for movie daredevils in high mortality "Westerns."

To take on a job of straightening out traffic in any metropolis, especially New York, requires courage of a U.S. Marine, steel nerves of Whitey Ford, assistance of Louis Arroyo, adventurous spirit of Lawrence of Arabia, and a close study of Harry Houdini, Keller and the Great Lafayette. He can't possibly be doing it to pay an election bet.

To anybody who has ever visited New York and taken a gander at traffic jam

in even a small area, the task of doing much about it all over city has seemed clearly too great, even with the support of the Green Bay Packers, the U.N., air cover and all makers of tranquilizers.

No traffic "straightener-outer" can win. First of all, so many new autos are hatched every 24 hours that every day brings new problem.

There is a public spirit of defiance. Drivers, especially truck operators, pay no attention. The police can't do much because it calls for guerrilla warfare.

We wish Mr. Barnes luck, but he will find that before coming to the Big City he never had it so good.

Most of the mortar for making brick walls is a mixture of either lime, sand and water or cement, sand and water. After the bricks are arranged in position, the water dries out of the mortar and the paste sets into a firm substance.

A Switch On An Old Ceremony

Goldberg Looks For The 'Middle Way'

By Victor Riesel

Seldom has U. S. Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg felt as strongly over any issue as he does over reports that he in fact virtually invited labor to push for heavy wage increases this year.

Victor Riesel

There has been coast-to-coast discussion — often heated — over what the President's spokesman said and meant during his speech to more than a thousand labor leaders in the Bal Harbour convention hall and later to scores of newsmen in a nearby glass-domed terrace.

The secretary, it appeared to me, did not say there was room for heavy wage increases and strong demands across the board. He said, in effect, that for the most part wage improvements should come in the low income areas and not those covered by the big and influential unions!

THIS VIEWPOINT he confirmed in a discussion with this columnist shortly after his return from Africa. During our talk Mr. Goldberg said he had used the word "advance" in wages — not vast wage increases.

There was a strong difference here, he said, because these advances can only be earned by increased productivity.

For the first time he put the increase and therefore the "advance" at three per cent annually. Even this should not be the full measure of a nationally beneficial upward movement of wages in the big union field, he believes, because the increased output benefits should be shared with the employer and consumer as well.

Obviously the advance he spoke of at the AFL-CIO convention would come to less than three per cent of current wages in the high income labor areas.

THIS HAS not enthused the national labor chiefs, even those who are his close friends. They plan to push for twice that percentage increase in money and benefits during the year.

"I would like," Mr. Goldberg told the delegates, "to say to you that one of the unfinished tasks of the trade union movement is to direct more of its intention, not to the area where the big unions can take care of their own problems — and they do very well — but to the area where people are drawing substandard wages."

In his conversation with me he listed the areas for improvement of "inequities" as needle trades, hotels, restaurants, new service industries, laundries, migratory workers, agricultural workers — the areas in which he says productivity is often hard to measure.

THE TIME has come, he believes, when the high paid members of the established unions in particular must exercise restraint. We must now be aware of our competitive position in the world.

We must recognize that while there was room for advance, it must be done with the over-all productivity, which in effect means that the big unions must take less.

Thus the "underprivileged" workers can get more, he believes. There is a national productivity yardstick he said — about three per cent increase annually.

If the high paid unionists in industry constantly get more, it eliminates the share which should go to workers in the low paid industries and services. If wages exceed the national productivity continuously, then we can't remain competitive in the world.

The labor secretary feels very strongly about these concepts. He says that it is "highly important" and to the benefit of our country, the labor movement and industry, that these concepts be understood.

HE WILL DEVOTE much of his time to speaking and writing in behalf of this "restraint" which he hopes will be self-imposed.

It will not "come overnight," says he. But he will urge it on all industry and that includes steel and missiles and jets and other fields in which emergencies may be whipped up in '62.

Mr. Secretary believes it can work voluntarily. He says he observed it operate smoothly in Sweden when he was there last summer.

There the major unions — the labor organizations which have the power to force heavy wage increases — don't. Right now Swedish labor and industry are negotiating and when these contracts are signed, the head of the Confederation of Swedish Trade Unions (LO), Arne Geijer, and Bertil Kugelberg, president of the Swedish Employers Confederation will come to the United States as Mr. Goldberg's guests.

He will bring them together with President Kennedy, the nation's labor leaders and business executives as well as John Kennedy's 21-man Labor-Management Committee.

Mr. Goldberg wants the Swedish labor and management leaders to point out the middle way, the war on inflation, the cooperation of both sides so successfully practiced in their own prosperous land.

Mr. Goldberg believes it can happen here.

Ground To Air

By Truman Twill

People find it hard to believe that the new pup at our house carries a kitten in her mouth and the kitten likes it.

The little thing doesn't even resent it on a cold day when his fur is soaked from the experience. He can't be comfortable when every hair on him is wet from puppy saliva, but he always lines up for the next ride.

The pup mostly picks him up on the fly. Only rarely does she hoist him before breaking into a gallop. But the kitten always places himself at right angles to her line of approach, in a position to be picked up around the middle.

Then, with his head hanging out one side and his tail flapping on the other side, he gets his ride — and it's wild. They don't go anywhere but they go. The pup tries the same thing with the other cats, but with the exception of one cat that still has a girlish figure they're too heavy to handle. The one with the girlish figure is ticklish, so the kitten gets all the fun.

We regard this, as we have chosen to regard everything else the pup does, as a manifestation of humor.

When she digs up a tree we chuckle and say, "Very funny."

If she spends a day lugging empty dog food cans from the dump into the yard — a project she picked up from one of the other dogs — we chuckle as we trip over them in the dark.

When she wrenches branches off bushes and piles them up on the door mat we smile as we fall to our knees in the entanglement.

Gay laughter peals at the sight of burlap bags strewn about; she finds these in the barn and brings them to light — very clever of her.

When we find she has beavered a table leg, we grin and chide her about being over-eager.

We also grin inwardly while wincing with pain from bruises she inflicts routinely in excesses of friendliness.

We giggle when she sits on a cat that has tried to muscle in on her lunch, or when she holds a feline trespasser down with one paw while balancing on three legs. We howl when she up-ends another dog.

With a little practice we can titter when she tries on an ankle for size, swallows a hand, or gnaws off the toe of a shoe.

For years we have been saying a dog, to be satisfactory, should be big enough to grab hold of without throwing it off balance; with hand-sized ears to pull; high enough for a child to straddle; heavy enough to cope with emergency problems and equipped with a sense of humor.

The new pup fits the bill.

The Mess In The Congo

By David Lawrence

International Trusteeship Proposed

The United Nations — aided by the money and influence of the government of the United States — is abandoning the principles of international morality and making a mess of the Congo.

Protection of private property — the heart of the whole problem — has been sidetracked by the U.N. and, David Lawrence of course, by the United States, too. The result is that the owners of the private property are engaged in a desperate struggle to save their possessions from thievery and confiscation. The whole controversy could be settled quickly in Washington, London, Brussels and Moscow if morality were accepted as a basis.

What does the word Congo mean to the average citizen in this country? Does he know the issues involved? Does he know that the Congo is a vast territory bigger than all of this country east of the Mississippi, bigger than Mexico, and more than four times the size of France?

Does he know it is populated by 13 million people composed of 200 tribes, speaking 38 different languages and that no one tribe has a controlling position?

Does the average American know that the $100 million appropriation which is being urged on Congress by the President for the purchase of U.N. bonds to finance the policing of the Congo's tribes, is just a small fraction of the hundreds of millions of dollars invested in the Congo by Belgian and British companies and by citizens of those countries?

They now are threatened with tremendous losses. Their attempts to get help from the British and Belgian governments are denounced even as the foreign residents in the Congo, who are trying to prevent their properties from being confiscated, are called "mercenaries."

WHAT IS MORE natural, for instance, than to find the Katanga government hiring a public relations expert to get its story across in America, even as the Department of State publicly seems to discredit such efforts?

Who are today the true "mercenaries"—the mining companies which support the Congo with their tax money or the Communists who buy up tribal leaders and encourage them to intensify the disorder?

There's a strange silence by the State Department about exposing the Communist intrigue and financial skulduggery which is keeping the Congo boiling with trouble.

In fact, the West for the last 10 years has fallen into the trap of "anti-colonialism" propaganda and now faces in Asia and Africa, as well as in Eastern Europe, a new imperialism under totalitarian regimes that are worse than colonial rule ever was. The U.N. has a half-hundred new member countries which are semi-civilized and incapable of self-government.

The Katanga Province, which "seceded" from the central government, is the biggest in area. It produces some 10 per cent of the world's copper and 65 per cent of its cobalt.

A huge mining company, mostly Belgian-owned — called "Union Miniere"—has been fighting for its life. It is anti-Communist. It felt that Lumumba was pro-Communist. Tshombe has been a champion of the Belgian company's interests.

The mining company is important to any central government because it has been contributing 40 per cent of the Congo's entire revenue and 60 per cent of its foreign exchange.

So the controversy involves a struggle for control of a big foreign-owned property, Gizenga, in the eastern province of the Congo, is Moscow's man. Tshombe is looked upon as Belgium's best bet.

IT IS in this kind of controversy, unfortunately, that the United Nations has become entangled.

The claim of U.N. spokesmen is that the preservation of law and order is all that's sought in the Congo. Actually, the U.N. has tried to remould the central government itself and is having a hard time placating the rival interests of the various tribes. Military force is being used for that purpose.

Belgium granted independence to the Congo in the mistaken belief that foreign properties would be safeguarded and that some form of self-government would work. But whenever a country is ready to give up its colonial authority, it would appear that an international trusteeship or mandate should be set up which would continue until the natives are sufficiently educated and trained to take over their own government.

IT ISN'T too late to rectify the error.

An international trusteeship — under British authority perhaps — is the only answer to the Congo mess.

The 200 tribes aren't ready for self-government. They can't even talk to each other in the same language. A minority of Africans in the country are educated and clamor for independence, though the vast majority are illiterate tribesmen.

The central government, of course, promises to permit a resumption of mining production in Katanga but the threat of nationalization or confiscation is real.

So basically it is a matter of materialism and not emancipation from colonialism that constitutes the main trouble of the Congo.

The sooner the United States exerts its influence for the protection of private property and investments in the Congo—and in Cuba, too—the clearer will become the American citizen's concept of what the United Nations can do to restore order and give underprivileged peoples a chance for a better life.

After-Thoughts

Five taverns were raided in Hancock County by West Virginia State Police over the weekend, with citations following.

With the background of similar raids in mind, it becomes increasingly difficult to reflect with sound judgment on each succeeding one.

The thought occurred that it might be interesting to consider such raids from the viewpoint of others, something like this:

Comedian Jerry Lewis—"Are you for real?"

Any tavern operator—"You've Got Me Cryin' Again."

The late composer Jerome Kern—"Only make believe!"

Teen-age bystander—"The same old story with a new twist."

Any barbershop quartet—"There is a tavern in the town."

And finally, the prophetic words of Abraham Lincoln—"You can fool some of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time."

Well Worth Looking Into

A report from New Delhi last week said India's Prime Minister Nehru had warned his countrymen not to believe in mystics who predict and rationalize according to the stars.

One of them had explained the takeover of Goa and those other two Portuguese enclaves by the stars. The idea, said the mystic, was that the Nehru government had no choice. The stars had predetermined the decision. It wasn't Krishna Menon's idea after all.

There are possibilities here worth looking into.

Prime Minister Nehru should think long before he poo-poo's mysticism. There is no future in logicity, as every well-schooled mystic knows.

The trouble with logicity is that every person who calls himself logical is bound by the same rules and is expected to think the same way. For example, there is supposedly only one logical explanation for every occurrence and one logical cause for every result.

Your uninhibited mystic, on the other hand, avoids all logic. He makes a specialty of finding what is concealed, then revealing it on his own terms. Each mystic has the ineffable privilege of revealing what he has learned to be true as if he had a monopoly of revelation.

This gives infinite latitude to mystics.

Applied to public affairs, it also could provide infinite latitude for politicians. Why did they hire and fire the wrong people? Why did they louse up foreign policy? What prompted them to make wrong decisions?

Mysticism gives them an easy out. The stars were in the wrong confluence, the fur on the weasel was too short, the chicken entrails, tea leaves and old bones didn't do what they were supposed to do.

Logicity, on the other hand, must reach the conclusion that somebody went off his rocker and should have been bagged instead of being let run loose. It gives a politician no latitude at all.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

New York has a new expert to straighten out its traffic. He ate a hearty breakfast, insisted he was innocent and said firmly "I am ready."

Henry A. Barnes left top Baltimore traffic post to take a command of Gotham war against chaos, indifference, driver madness and problem that won't go away. He is bravest invader of North since Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson. Mr. Barnes insists he is not doing it in hope of an offer from Hollywood for a role "doubling" for movie daredevils in high mortality "Westerns."

To take on a job of straightening out traffic in any metropolis, especially New York, requires courage of a U.S. Marine, steel nerves of Whitney Ford, assistance of Louis Arroyo, adventurous spirit of Lawrence of Arabia, and a close study of Harry Houdini, Keller and the Great Lafayette. He can't possibly be doing it to pay an election bet.

To anybody who has ever visited New York and taken a gander at traffic jam

in even a small area, the task of doing much about it all over city has seemed clearly too great, even with the support of the Green Bay Packers, the U.N., air cover and all makers of tranquilizers.

No traffic "straightener-outer" can win. First of all, so many new autos are hatched every 24 hours that every day brings new problem.

There is a public spirit of defiance. Drivers, especially truck operators, pay no attention. The police can't do much because it calls for guerrilla warfare.

We wish Mr. Barnes luck, but he will find that before coming to the Big City he never had it so good.

Most of the mortar for making brick walls is a mixture of either lime, sand and water or cement, sand and water. After the bricks are laid in position, the water dries out of the mortar and the paste sets into a firm substance.

A Switch On An Old Ceremony

Goldberg Looks For The 'Middle Way'

By Victor Riesel

Seldom has U. S. Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg felt as strongly over any issue as he does over reports that he in fact virtually invited labor to push for heavy wage increases this year.

There has been coast-to-coast discussion — often heated — over what the President's spokesman said and meant during his speech to more than a thousand labor leaders in the Bal Harbour convention hall and later to scores of newsmen in a nearby glass-domed terrace.

The secretary, it appeared to me, did not say there was room for heavy wage increases and strong demands across the board. He said, in effect, that for the most part wage improvements should come in the low income areas and not those covered by the big and influential unions!

THIS VIEWPOINT he confirmed in a discussion with this columnist shortly after his return from Africa. During our talk Mr. Goldberg said he had used the word "advance" in wages — not vast wage increases.

There was a strong difference here, he said, because these advances can only be earned by increased productivity.

For the first time he put the increase and therefore the "advance" at three per cent annually. Even this should not be the full measure of a nationally beneficial upward movement of wages in the big union field, he believes, because the increased output benefits should be shared with the employer and consumer as well.

Obviously the advance he spoke of at the AFL-CIO convention would come to less than three per cent of current wages in the high income labor areas.

THIS HAS not enthused the national labor chiefs, even those who are his close friends. They plan to push for twice that percentage increase in money and benefits during the year.

"I would like," Mr. Goldberg told the delegates, "to say to you that one of the unfinished tasks of the trade union movement is to direct more of its intention, not to the area where the big unions can take care of their own problems — and they do very well — but to the area where people are drawing substandard wages."

In his conversation with me he listed the areas for improvement of "inequities" as needle trades, hotels, restaurants, new service industries, laundries, migratory workers, agricultural workers — the areas in which he says productivity is often hard to measure.

THE TIME has come, he believes, when the high paid members of the established unions in particular must exercise restraint. We must now be aware of our competitive position in the world.

We must recognize that while there was room for advance, it must be done with the over-all productivity, which in effect means that the big unions must take less.

Thus the "underprivileged" workers can get more, he believes. There is a national productivity yardstick he said — about three per cent increase annually.

If the high paid unionists in industry constantly get more, it eliminates the share which should go to workers in the low paid industries and services. If wages exceeded the national productivity continuously, then we can't remain competitive in the world.

The labor secretary feels very strongly about these concepts. He says that it is "highly important" and to the benefit of our country, the labor movement and industry, that these concepts be understood.

Ground To Air

By Truman Twill

People find it hard to believe that the new pup at our house carries a kitten in her mouth and the kitten likes it.

The little thing doesn't even resent it on a cold day when his fur is soaked from the experience. He can't be comfortable when every hair on him is wet from puppy saliva, but he always lines up for the next ride.

The pup mostly picks him up on the fly. Only rarely does she hoist him before breaking into a gallop. But the kitten always places himself at right angles to her line of approach, in a position to be picked up around the middle.

Then, with his head hanging out one side and his tail flapping on the other side, he gets his ride — and it's wild. They don't go anywhere but they go. The pup tries the same thing with the other cats, but with the exception of one cat that still has a girlish figure they're too heavy to handle. The one with the girlish figure is ticklish, so the kitten gets all the fun.

We regard this, as we have chosen to regard everything else the pup does, as a manifestation of humor.

When she digs up a tree we chuckle and say, "Very funny." If she spends a day lugging empty dog food cans from the dump into the yard — a project she picked up from one of the other dogs — we chuckle as we trip over them in the dark.

When she wrenches branches off bushes and piles them up on the door mat we smile as we fall to our knees in the entanglement.

Gay laughter peals at the sight of burlap bags strewn about; she finds these in the barn and brings them to light — very clever of her.

When we find she has beavered a table leg, we grin and chide her about being over-eager.

We also grin inwardly while wincing with pain from bruises she inflicts routinely in excesses of friendliness.

We giggle when she sits on a cat that has tried to muscle in on her lunch, or when she holds a feline trespasser down with one paw while balancing on three legs. We howl when she up-ends another dog.

With a little practice we can titter when she tries on an ankle for size, swallows a hand, or gnaws off the toe of a shoe.

For years we have been saying a dog, to be satisfactory, should be big enough to grab hold of without throwing it off balance; with handful-sized ears to pull; high enough for a child to straddle; heavy enough to cope with emergency problems and equipped with a sense of humor.

The Mess In The Congo

By David Lawrence

International Trusteeship Proposed

The United Nations — aided by the money and influence of the government of the United States — is abandoning the principles of international morality and making a mess of the Congo.

Protection of private property — the heart of the whole problem — has been sidetracked by the U.N. and, David Lawrence of course, by the United States, too. The result is that the owners of the private property are engaged in a desperate struggle to save their possessions from thievery and confiscation. The whole controversy could be settled quickly in Washington, London, Brussels and Moscow if morality were accepted as a basis.

What does the word Congo mean to the average citizen in this country? Does he know the issues involved? Does he know that the Congo is a vast territory bigger than all of this country east of the Mississippi, bigger than Mexico, and more than four times the size of France?

Does he know it is populated by 13 million people composed of 200 tribes, speaking 38 different languages and that no one tribe has a controlling position?

Does the average American know that the $100 million appropriation which is being urged on Congress by the President for the purchase of U.N. bonds to finance the policing of the Congo's tribes, is just a small fraction of the hundreds of millions of dollars invested in the Congo by Belgian and British companies and by citizens of those countries?

They now are threatened with tremendous losses. Their attempts to get help from the British and Belgian governments are denounced even as the foreign residents in the Congo, who are trying to prevent their properties from being confiscated, are called "mercenaries."

WHAT IS MORE natural, for instance, than to find the Katanga government hiring a public relations expert to get its story across in America, even as the Department of State publicly seems to discredit such efforts?

Who are today the true "mercenaries"—the mining companies which support the Congo with their tax money or the Communists who buy up tribal leaders and encourage them to intensify the disorder?

There's a strange silence by the State Department about exposing the Communist intrigue and financial skulduggery which is keeping the Congo boiling with trouble.

In fact, the West for the last 10 years has fallen into the trap of "anti-colonialism" propaganda and now faces in Asia and Africa, as well as in Eastern Europe, a new imperialism under totalitarian regimes that are worse than colonial rule ever was. The U.N. has a half-hundred new member countries which are semi-civilized and incapable of self-government.

The Katanga Province, which "seceded" from the central government, is the biggest in area. It produces some 10 per cent of the world's copper and 65 per cent of its cobalt.

A huge mining company, mostly Belgian-owned — called "Union Miniere"—has been fighting for its life. It is anti-Communist. It felt that Lumumba was pro-Communist. Tshombe has been a champion of the Belgian company's interests.

The mining company is important to any central government because it has been contributing 40 per cent of the Congo's entire revenue and 60 per cent of its foreign exchange.

So the controversy involves a struggle for control of a big foreign-owned property. Gizenga, in the eastern province of the Congo, is Moscow's man. Tshombe is looked upon as Belgium's best bet.

IT IS in this kind of controversy, unfortunately, that the United Nations has become entangled.

The claim of U.N. spokesmen is that the preservation of law and order is all that's sought in the Congo. Actually, the U.N. has tried to remould the central government itself and is having a hard time placating the rival interests of the various tribes. Military force is being used for that purpose.

Belgium granted independence to the Congo in the mistaken belief that foreign properties would be safeguarded and that some form of self-government would work. But whenever a country is ready to give up its colonial authority, it would appear that an international trusteeship or mandate should be set up which would continue until the natives are sufficiently educated and trained to take over their own government.

IT ISN'T too late to rectify the error.

An international trusteeship — under British authority perhaps — is the only answer to the Congo mess.

The 200 tribes aren't ready for self-government. They can't even talk to each other in the same language. A minority of Africans in the country are educated and clamor for independence, though the vast majority are illiterate tribesmen.

The central government, of course, promises to permit a resumption of mining production in Katanga but the threat of nationalization or confiscation is real.

So basically it is a matter of materialism and not emancipation from colonialism that constitutes the main trouble of the Congo.

The sooner the United States exerts its influence for the protection of private property and investments in the Congo—and in Cuba, too—the clearer will become the American citizen's concept of what the United Nations can do to restore order and give underprivileged peoples a chance for a better life.

Midland Board Awards Contract

The Midland Board of Education Monday evening awarded a contract to the Beaver Valley Sheet Metal Co. of Beaver Falls on its low bid of $4,900 to install automatic dampers in heat ducts of the high school and three elementary schools.

Under an institutional property fire insurance plan adopted last month by the board, insurance underwriters have required the duct dampers be installed. About $3,000 is expected to be saved under the new insurance plan.

Supt. Ralph H. Jewell said the dampers would be installed in all vents that lead to a floor above.

He said that in talks with the contractor, little noise will be involved and some classes could be shifted to other rooms.

The firm's bid was for $5,411 but it stipulated that if the contract was awarded for the work to be done in all four schools in the next two or three months, it would give a discount of $511. Edward Cilli, property committee chairman, made the motion to accept.

The other bid, that of Ernest J. Calabretta of Midland, amounted to $7,342.

THE COST for each school, not including the discount, is $420 for 1st St., $1,070 for 4th St., $610 for 7th St. and $3,311 for Lincoln High.

At a certain degree of heat the dampers will close. Cilli commented why the state did not require them when it ordered fire hazard repairs a year or so ago.

A bid of $450 for a circulating pump for the auxiliary heating system in the high school, submitted by Calabretta, was referred to Cilli's property committee for study and action. The present pump, which is obsolete, recently broke down.

The board approved a recommendation of Jewell on motion of Maurice Newman that the superintendent be authorized to write the Western Beaver County School District, requesting the number of tuition - paying students to attend Lincoln High in the 1962-1963 term.

JEWELL told board members he and they need to know the number of students by March 1 in order to make the Midland district's new budget. The Western Beaver County district is currently building a new junior-senior high school in Industry which it plans to open next fall.

The board approved a motion of Newman, finance chairman, to transfer $1,200 from the general fund to the athletic fund to pay current bills.

Resignation of Mrs. Emma Tray, janitor at the high school, effective Jan. 15, was accepted.

The motion was made by Leslie B. Roach, personnel chairman. Approval was given for Saturday morning basketball classes for 15 weeks and the sponsor, to be named, to receive $150. The motion was made by Frank Alo, playground chairman.

JOHN UCCELLINI, athletics chairman, congratulated Coach Henry (Hank) Kuzma for winning the school's first basketball tournament recently and to the Leopards Booster Club for its co-operation.

Presentation Parochial School was given permission to use the old high school gymnasium at the regular rental fee and for practice sessions, at no fee.

Samuel Rosatone, maintenance supervisor, reported that a student almost walked through a pane of glass at the front of the new gymnasium building. On recommendation of Uccellini, James Morrison, board president, asked Rosatone to mark the pane with tape.

Rosatone also reported that children are running into the trophy case at the new gym during ball games. Jewell was asked to get prices for an iron railing.

THE BOARD approved the purchase of a coat rack for the Carnegie Free Library from Kurtz Brothers of Clearfield, Pa., at a cost of $26.50. Jewell recommended the purchase since the library has no rack.

General bills in the amount of $4,803.58 were ordered paid. Jewell commented that bills were low since some $2,500 in light and gas bills have not arrived and will be paid before next month to receive a discount.

Interim orders paid by Jewell during December amounted to $626.16 and were approved. Receipts of $1,096.26, including $926.74 from Beaver County in lieu of taxes for Midcrest Homes, were received and voted to the proper account.

Mrs. Eldamae Castelli, treasurer, reported a balance of $223,571.73 as of Dec. 31. Rudolph Presutti, tax collector, reported $3,121.27 in taxes deposited in December, including $79.34 in penalties and leaving a balance of $17,662.34 to be collected. Both reports were ordered filed.

APPROVAL was given a request of the Carnegie Library Board of Trustees for the purchase of books in the amount of $158.65 as recommended by the librarian.

Jewell distributed copies of his annual report for the school year 1960-1961 to board members. The 92-page report contains information on various programs, activities and budget.

Model To Be Shown

Hancock School Design Honored

A scale model of a new $2,888,700 campus - style high school building to be erected in Weirton as part of the expansion plan of the Hancock County school system has been selected as one of 275 outstanding designs to be displayed in Atlantic City next month.

In addition, the modern school designed by Kellam & Foley, Columbus architects, is one of 25 that has been awarded a special citation for its flexibility and distinction in design.

A MODEL of the building, which will house 1,000 pupils, will be on display at the convention of the National Association of School Administrators Feb. 19-24 at Convention Hall.

Supt. Robert H. Hall, who announced the school's selection for exhibit for the educators, said he and all five members of the County Board will attend.

They are John W. Boyd of Chester and J. Fred Allison of Newell. Grant District members, Dr. W. Dale Williams of New Cumberland, Clay District, and Mrs. Mary Swartz and Robert H. Miller of Weirton, Butler District representatives.

The architects announced the selection of the Weirton school as one of 275 outstanding models to be displayed when the board met Tuesday night in New Cumberland.

THE citation is printed on a small card which will be attached to the exhibit of the high school in the huge hall.

It reads: "An outstanding school building designed for a forward-looking educational program. A campus plan with a little school concept well adapted to a hilly site, with effective use of outdoor areas. The relationships between the various units and flexibility of instructional spaces are distinctive features of this plan."

Aquarium Firm Buys Y.&O. Tract For New Building

The Elite Aquarium Manufacturing Co., located on Routes 7 and 30 at the intersection of Westfield Rd., has purchased approximately an acre tract on the Y. & O. Rd. and expects to relocate its business as soon as a new building can be constructed.

Operated by John Watson, the company purchased the tract near Annesley Rd. from Ivan Barber of Chester. The W. E. Kaiser Agency handled the transaction.

The company's present property is expected to be taken for construction of the second phase of the Ohio River - Lake Erie freeway from the city limits to a point beyond Route 170. Negotiations with the State Highway Department still are under way, Mrs. Watson said.

The company will erect a new 40-x-116-foot concrete block building on its new property. Work will begin as soon as possible.

The company has been in business for approximately five years and manufactures fish aquariums for wholesale firms in Chicago, Columbus, Dayton, Cleveland,

The architects said the scale model will be placed in a prominent place in the hall to call the visitors' attention to what the selectors regard as "noteworthy, commendable features of the plan."

COMMENTING on the announcement, Supt. Hall said "We are quite excited about the new school and its program. It will be a large school to house 1,000 students in Grades 10 through 12."

"This particular school combines features of a large and a small school, in that there is one academic building to house two bodies of 500 students, with its own assistant principal, guidance director and its own organization."

"Students will receive the benefits of a large school and small school concept, and the plan gives students opportunity to develop more leadership than in one large school."

The Weirton school is one of several to be constructed in a $3 million expansion program for the county system.

A NEW HIGH school planned for the Pughtown area was not submitted for exhibition in Atlantic City because the plans are not yet completed, Supt. Hall said.

Meanwhile, a number of other schools in the system underwent repairs during the Christmas vacation, Supt. Hall said.

A new gas-fired boiler costing $5,000 was installed in the Newell Jefferson School to replace faulty equipment. The old boiler, which leaked badly, had been installed when the building was erected.

A partition is being built at the Grandview school near Chester to provide protection from the weather for students leaving classrooms to enter an inside restroom in another part of the structure. Remodeling has been completed at two schools in Weirton.

Pittsburgh and in Michigan. It also manufactures special tanks for homes and buildings.

Hopewell Man Given Oath In Beaver Post

BEAVER — George C. Hill of Hopewell Township, a Republican, was sworn in this morning as one of two jury commissioners elected in November.

He had been on the fence whether to accept the post because he found out that he could not keep his county pension if he accepted. He is a former deputy sheriff.

Also, the jury commissioner pay is only $75 a month, a little more than his pension. The job has no travel allowance.

Sam Urlick of Aliquippa, Democrat, who has not been sworn in yet as the other jury commissioner, is awaiting approval by the Pennsylvania Board of Parole on his request for a full pardon on a 1944 criminal case originating in Allegheny County.

get a replacement. The city's credit is no good."

"WE'RE NOT trying to blame the former Council," Councilman Robert W. Sample Jr. said. He also is a member of the finance committee.

"They did their best to operate the city within its financial means," Sample added.

"When we draw the final appropriation in March, that's when we have to consider where the money is coming from for the full year," Willshaw said. "If we don't have the money, we will have to start swinging the ax."

He remarked that about $3,500 has been collected in income tax since Dec. 31. Additional collections this spring may push the final total to $10,000, he said.

Referring to the red ink in the general fund, Willshaw added: "We're starting the year standing below the bottom."

SAMPLE commented that "by March, the East End, North Side and Pleasant Heights fire stations may be closed and the police department may be cut down."

"Those are just a few of the things we face," he added.

"I can't see where any cut can be made except in the major services such as the police and fire departments," Councilman Edward Massey said.

Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper said he expects another cut in the city's income in 1962. Debt requirements this year will take $20,000 more than in 1961, another deduction from general operating revenue, he said.

Willshaw presented a report summarizing expenditures from last year's income tax revenue. In addition to $53,883 transferred to the general fund, it included:

Salaries, $11,729; printing, $4,429; incidentals, $2,111; equipment renovation and office alteration, $689; consultant's contract, $6,300; road oil purchases, $4,783; St. Clair Ave. improvement fund, $10,206; notes redeemed, $39,675; transfers to street fund, $6,700; transfer to swimming pool fund, $1,500; and transfer to bond retirement, $5,252.

WILLSHAW GAVE the summary of finances after Council approved unanimously a temporary appropriation ordinance providing $318,992 for routine operation of all city departments through March 31.

The three-month appropriation customarily is enacted at the first meeting of the year to provide for city operations while the finance committee works out the fiscal picture for the full year. The full year's appropriation generally is enacted in late March.

Appropriations, by funds, in the temporary measure are: General, $16,502; safety, $76,953; health, $5,905; service, $18,508; garbage, $42,723; water, $63,358; sewage revenue, $50,341; relief, $10,000; street, $29,200; Civil Defense, $1,000, and income tax, $4,502.

Midland Board Awards Contract

The Midland Board of Education Monday evening awarded a contract to the Beaver Valley Sheet Metal Co. of Beaver Falls on its low bid of $4,900 to install automatic dampers in heat ducts of the high school and three elementary schools.

Under an institutional property fire insurance plan adopted last month by the board, insurance underwriters have required the duct dampers be installed. About $3,000 is expected to be saved under the new insurance plan.

Supt. Ralph H. Jewell said the dampers would be installed in all vents that lead to a floor above.

He said that in talks with the contractor, little noise will be involved and some classes could be shifted to other rooms.

The firm's bid was for $5,411 but it stipulated that if the contract was awarded for the work to be done in all four schools in the next two or three months, it would give a discount of $511. Edward Cilli, property committee chairman, made the motion to accept.

The other bid, that of Ernest J. Calabretta of Midland, amounted to $7,342.

THE COST for each school, not including the discount, is $420 for 1st St., $1,070 for 4th St., $610 for 7th St. and $3,311 for Lincoln High.

At a certain degree of heat the dampers will close. Cilli commented why the state did not require them when it ordered fire hazard repairs a year or so ago.

A bid of $540 for a circulating pump for the auxiliary heating system in the high school, submitted by Calabretta, was referred to Cilli's property committee for study and action. The present pump, which is obsolete, recently broke down.

The board approved a recommendation of Jewell on motion of Maurice Newman that the superintendent be authorized to write the Western Beaver County School District, requesting the number of tuition - paying students to attend Lincoln High in the 1962-1963 term.

JEWELL told board members he and they need to know the number of students by March 1 in order to make the Midland district's new budget. The Western Beaver County district is currently building a new junior-senior high school in Industry which it plans to open next fall.

The board approved a motion of Newman, finance chairman, to transfer $1,200 from the general fund to the athletic fund to pay current bills.

Resignation of Mrs. Emma Tray, janitor at the high school, effective Jan. 15, was accepted.

Ted Koenig, band director, announced the Columbiana County Band Festival will be held Feb. 23 at Beaver Local High School. Some 126 band members from various county schools will participate.

Mrs. Dorothy Kidney, president, conducted business.

The motion was made by Leslie B. Roach, personnel chairman.

Approval was given for Saturday morning basketball classes for 15 weeks and the sponsor, to be named, to receive $150. The motion was made by Frank Alo, playground chairman.

JOHN UCCELLINI, athletics chairman, congratulated Coach Henry (Hank) Kuzma for winning the school's first basketball tournament recently and to the Leopard Booster Club for its co-operation.

Presentation Parochial School was given permission to use the old high school gymnasium at the regular rental fee and for practice sessions, at no fee.

Samuel Rosatone, maintenance supervisor, reported that a student almost walked through a pane of glass at the front of the new gymnasium building. On recommendation of Uccellini, James Morrison, board president, asked Rosatone to mark the pane with tape.

Rosatone also reported that children are running into the trophy case at the new gym during ball games. Jewell was asked to get prices for an iron railing.

THE BOARD approved the purchase of a coat rack for the Carnegie Free Library from Kurtz Brothers of Clearfield, Pa., at a cost of $26.50. Jewell recommended the purchase since the library has no rack.

General bills in the amount of $4,803.58 were ordered paid. Jewell commented that bills were low since some $2,500 in light and gas bills have not arrived and will be paid before next month to receive a discount.

Interim orders placed by Jewell during December amounted to $826.16 and were approved. Receipts of $1,096.26, including $826.74 from Beaver County in lieu of taxes for Midcrest Homes, were received and voted to the proper account.

Mrs. Eldamae Castelli, treasurer, reported a balance of $223,571.73 as of Dec. 31. Rudolph Presutti, tax collector, reported $3,121.27 in taxes deposited in December, including $79.34 in penalties and leaving a balance of $17,662.34 to be collected. Both reports were ordered filed.

APPROVAL was given a request of the Carnegie Library Board of Trustees for the purchase of books in the amount of $158.65 as recommended by the librarian.

Jewell distributed copies of his annual report for the school year 1960-1961 to board members. The 92-page report contains information on various programs, activities and budget.

Model To Be Shown Hancock School Design Honored

A scale model of a new $2,888,700 campus - style high school building to be erected in Weirton as part of the expansion plan of the Hancock County school system has been selected as one of 275 outstanding designs to be displayed in Atlantic City next month.

In addition, the modern school designed by Kellam & Foley, Columbus architects, is one of 25 that has been awarded a special citation for its flexibility and distinction in design.

A MODEL of the building, which will house 1,000 pupils, will be on display at the convention of the National Association of School Administrators Feb. 19-24 at Convention Hall.

Supt. Robert H. Hall, who announced the school's selection for exhibit for the educators, said he and all five members of the County Board will attend.

They are John W. Boyd of Chester and J. Fred Allison of Newell. Grant District members, Dr. W. Dale Williams of New Cumberland, Clay District, and Mrs. Mary Swartz and Robert H. Miller of Weirton, Butler District representatives.

The architects announced the selection of the Weirton school as one of 275 outstanding models to be displayed when the board met Tuesday night in New Cumberland.

THE citation is printed on a small card which will be attached to the exhibit of the high school in the huge hall.

It reads: "An outstanding school building designed for a forward-looking educational program. A campus plan with a little school concept well adapted to a hilly site, with effective use of outdoor areas. The relationships between the various units and flexibility of instructional spaces are distinct features of this plan."

A new gas-fired boiler costing $5,000 was installed in the Newell Jefferson School to replace faulty equipment. The old boiler, which leaked badly, had been installed when the building was erected.

A partition is being built at the Grandview school near Chester to provide protection from the weather for students leaving classrooms to enter an inside restroom in another part of the structure. Remodeling has been completed at two schools in Weirton, Pittsburgh and in Michigan. It also manufactures special tanks for homes and buildings.

Refund Total To Hit $1,000 On City's Tax

At least $1,000 in refunds will be issued to individuals and business houses who overpaid on their 1961 city income tax, Council was advised Monday night by Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson.

To pay the refunds, Council requested legislation for its meeting next Monday night providing the $1,000 for deposit in a special "income tax refund account" on which the tax office can issue checks.

The refunds will go mainly to individuals and business houses who paid their tax in advance for all of 1961, although the law was repealed at the Nov. 7 election and "died" on Nov. 15, Wilkinson explained.

When a similar tax ordinance died in November 1958, some $29 refund checks were issued for a total of $3,635, he said. But the figure this time is not expected to reach half of the 1958 total—mainly because not so many persons overpaid their taxes in 1961, Wilkinson said.

The refunds will be made on specially-printed checks and duplicates will be retained in the City Hall office, Wilkinson said. The system has been approved by state examiners in other Ohio cities where refunds were necessary, he said.

The refund checks will be mailed in weekly batches as soon as the money is available, Wilkinson said. Closing out the tax office means that 6,000 accounts must be audited, he said.

In other business, Council ratified two recent appointments made by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet — Mrs. Ila Finney Johnston as a member of the Health Board and Judge Louis Tobin as a member of the Board of Thompson Park Commissioners. Both were named to new terms.

Council filed a notice from the County Election Board explaining that the city will be charged $3,103 as its share of 1961 election expenses, including $402 for voter registration.

Two bills against the city for auto damage were referred to the claims committee. Guy Danser of Wellsville R. D. 1 asked $31 and S. A. Thomas of Globe St. filed a $91 claim.

Mrs. Mary Hughey of Ohio Ave. filed a $61 bill for medical charges and other expenses she said resulted when she fell in a chuck-hole on Myrtle Ave. Solicitor Joseph Cooper advised Council that a resolution previously was enacted to pay Mrs. Hughey, but she refused to accept the money and said her medical expenses were continuing. The claims committee was asked to investigate.

Councilman S. James Welch asked the street committee to investigate a request for removal of a tree on city property at Kinsey and Pickering Sts.

The session opened with invocation by Clerk Owen D. Kountz.

Teen-Agers Spot, Fight Fire Until Firemen Arrive

Two teen-agers who spotted a fire in a home on Main St., Wellsville, Monday night at 7:47 were credited today by Fire Chief Lewis for helping to keep the blaze down until firemen arrived.

The fire caused some $500 damage to the home of Nevin Williams, 1537 Main St. The family was not home at the time.

The two, Gene Wright, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wright, 933 Commerce St., and Nelson Montier of Toronto, were walking along the street when they spotted the smoke. Lewis said the two notified a neighbor to call the department and then forced open the door of the house.

The boys then grabbed buckets, filled them with water and began dousing the flames. Firemen said there still was fire beneath the floor of the home, but the boys did keep the flames from spreading faster. "They did a good job," Chief Lewis said.

Lewis said the fire was started by a faulty installation of a heating unit. He said an ordinary space heater was being utilized as a floor furnace. The heater had been placed down in a hole in the floor. It became overheated due to the cold weather and ignited the surrounding floor, Lewis said.

Lisbon Levy To Be On May Ballot Again

LISBON — Another village vote on a proposed 3-mill operating levy is planned for the May primary as a result of unanimous endorsement by Council Monday night.

Councilmen said the levy would be resubmitted to provide some $18,000 annually to help make up the loss of revenue because of the transfer of Ohio Highway Patrol cases out of the mayor's court a few years ago.

The levy was turned down last May by 68 votes and lost in November 1961.

Sheriff Russell VanFossan advised Council his department can no longer handle police and fire calls for the community because of staff reductions due to budget cutbacks.

Council's fire committee and firemen are to meet Monday night at 7 to seek another plan to provide 24-hour police and fire communication service.

Discussion was held on preparing a resolution calling for county commissioners to replace the S. Market St. bridge over Beaver Creek, which councilmen said is in poor condition and is a one-way span without walking facilities.

Council also aired the need for reflector signs on N. Market St. and along Route 30 from the east, designating curves at which there have been serious traffic accidents, including one yesterday morning which hospitalized three.

Atty. Joseph Baronzi was reappointed solicitor for two years, and Richard Roberts was rehired as street commissioner for a year—both at the current salaries.

A temporary three-month appropriation of $119,000 was approved, until a complete budget is set up for the year.

Ray Hempstead, treasurer, reported on the bonded debt. At present the village owes $347,000 but paid off $17,000 last year. Paid off were $6,000 in disposal plant general obligation, leaving balance of $114,000; disposal system mortgage revenue bonds of $5,000, leaving a balance of $205,000; Sadie VanFossan Swimming Pool, $4,000, leaving a balance of $16,000, and sewer in N. Park Pl., $2,000, leaving a balance of $12,000.

A request was made by Councilman Raymond Dixon for repairs to an alley between Washington and Maple Sts., which was dug up by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. and now needs slag. Mayor Dean Stockman will check and have the street department or utility repair it.

A discussion was held on placing parking meters at a laundrymat at Washington and S. Jefferson Sts. to provide parking places for patrons but no definite action was taken.

Council authorized return of a used truck and ashtray purchased at a special meeting in December, believing it would solve the poor equipment problem. But there has been more trouble with the used equipment than with the old equipment and it will be sent back and the $1,500 returned.

Two camp-type house trailers were damaged over the weekend by vandals who broke two windows and damaged a door. George Crossen reported to police early Monday afternoon.

The vandalism occurred between 11:30 p. m. Saturday and 8 a. m. yesterday at his trailer sales lot at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., Crossen reported.

record show the vote was unanimous for Zollinger.

When he assumes the $1,200-a-year job next Monday, Zollinger will succeed Owen D. Kountz of Erie St., who served two years as clerk of the all-Democratic Council that left office Dec. 31. A change in the clerk's post at the organization meeting was a foregone conclusion, as the balance of power had swung to the Republicans, 4-3.

Other applicants for the post were: Roy Rinehart of W. 7th St., a Review display advertising department employee; Paul Zehnder of Fairmont St., employee of the Sayre Electric Co.; William Y. Orr of Princeton Ave., former councilman; E. Allan McKeever of W. 7th St., former mayor; Richard Johnston of W. 9th St., an elementary teacher at Westgate School, and Kountz.

First the eight applications were read by Kountz. Then Councilman Frank Duffy placed Mrs. Stone in nomination. Before there was a second, Councilman Robert W. Sample moved for a five-minute recess to work out the voting procedure. An informal vote in caucus, showed 5 for Zollinger and 2 for Mrs. Stone.

When Council returned to the floor, Councilman Edward Massey moved that all applicants be considered as nominees. The official vote followed by secret ballot.

A few minutes later, Mrs. Sweeney was returned without opposition as the assistant clerk, a post she has held under both Democratic and Republican control.

As the organization meeting began, Councilman George E. Willshaw was elected president pro tem, to serve in the absence of the president. He was elected strictly along party lines, 4-3, over Massey.

Willshaw was nominated by Councilman S. James Welch and Massey was nominated by Councilman Floyd Murray.

In another facet of the organization procedure, Council President Robert Owen announced standing committees for the new biennium. With the chairman named first in each case, they are:

Finance: Willshaw, Sample and Massey; rules: Welch, Willshaw and Sample; ordinance: Sample, Welch and Murray.

Franchise: Duffy, Massey and Kenneth Berg; planning: Murray, Duffy and Willshaw; claims: Massey, Duffy and Berg; streets: Berg, Welch and Murray; police pension board: Willshaw and Murray, and fire pension board: Massey and Welch.

Zollinger retired last July 1 after 38 years at Crucible. He worked in cost accounting and mill accounting. A Republican and a native of East Liverpool, he unsuccessfully ran for Council two years ago.

Zollinger is treasurer of the East Liverpool Little League and president of the Columbiana County Affiliate of the United Cerebral Palsy Association.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet welcomed the new Council and pledged the co-operation of his office. He asked co-operation in return.

"As in the last two years, the door to my office is always open to any councilman who wishes to consult with me," the mayor said. "Feel free to call upon me at any time."

Brown To Run Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown announced Monday he will seek the Republican nomination for a fifth term in his present post at the May primary.

Postal Branch Bid Awaited

No bids have been received but at least one is anticipated for a contract postal branch in the Calcutta area, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

The deadline for submitting a bid is 2 p. m. Wednesday. The legal notice seeking bids has been posted in the lobby of the Post Office since Dec. 29 although most people apparently have ignored it, he said.

According to the department's proposal, the branch must be located on Route 170 between Calcutta and Routes 7-30.

The bidder must guarantee to provide quarters, heat, light and necessary clerical help, and to provide financial service consisting of postal money orders, registry, parcel post and stamp sales. He also must agree to transport postal business during the hours his establishment is open for business or for the hours designated by the postmaster.

The bidder must not engage in the sale of non-postal money orders, checks or similar instruments for the transmission of money without the approval of the department, Brown continued.

Brown emphasized that no mail will be either delivered from the branch or received there.

Woman Motorist Shaken In Crash

A woman motorist was shaken up in a two-way crash Monday at 3:42 p. m. at W. 4th and Jackson Sts. that damaged two cars extensively, police reported.

Mrs. Nora V. Dyke of Route 170, near Calcutta, told police she would consult with her family physician following a collision between her 1960 model compact and a 1955 four-door sedan operated by Earl F. Speerhas, 17, of 936 Phoenix Ave., Chester.

The crash damaged the entire front of Mrs. Dyke's car and the right front of the Speerhas vehicle, police said. Mrs. Dyke told police she was driving east on W. 4th and intending to turn onto Jackson. Speerhas told officers he was going west about 40 miles an hour. He said Mrs. Dyke made a turn in front of him and he slid 90 feet on dry pavement in an attempt to halt.

Another mishap at Vine St. and Thompson Ave. Monday at 6 p. m. damaged a 1956 sedan driven by Charles E. Allison, 1104 Vine St., and a 1956 convertible operated by Thomas Berdine, 1228 Berdine St., Wellsville, police said. There was damage to the front of Allison's car and the right side of Berdine's, police said.

fail to succeed the late Lee Copenhaver.

Talking over Owen's complicated switches through various offices with Council last night, the mayor indicated he expects to name a new Council president soon. He said he will advise the councilmen first — before the name is made public.

"Frankly, right now I'm undecided," the mayor said. "Several names have been presented to me."

He may name any East Liverpool resident who is a qualified elector.

If the new president is not named before the meeting next Monday night, Council will not be without a presiding officer. Councilman George E. Willshaw, named president pro tem at the organization meeting last night, would be in the chair.

District Scout Heads Will Convene Tonight

Representatives of all 53 Cherokee District scout units are expected to attend the district committee meeting tonight at 7:30 at Chester American Legion home.

Plans for 1962 will be made, Robert Gray, scout executive, said. Thomas Snow, district chairman, will preside.

The first Roundtable meeting of the year will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the YMCA. The "Rooster" will be presented to the pack with the greatest attendance during 1961 at the roundtable meetings.

Midland Mail Shows Drop

Midland Postmaster Angelo Cellini reported cancellations for December, about 193,000, representing 10 per cent less than for the comparable period in 1960 when it was 202,630.

He reported a 5 per cent increase in stamp sales.

He said the decrease in cancellations may be attributed to more meters used the past year by businesses and some residents using the Industry Post Office, which has parking facilities. There were 190,450 cancellations in December 1959.

Cellini said only three extra men were hired during the holiday rush due to the new mail system inaugurated last year to save on manpower and to eliminate two and three deliveries.

He announced the commemorative 4-cent Mexican statehood stamp went on sale Monday.

Will Hear Brown

WASHINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Former interim governor John M. Brown is the scheduled speaker at the annual banquet of the Clinton County Farmers and Sportsmen's Club Wednesday. Brown is now a Republican state senator from Medina.

Refund Total To Hit $1,000 On City's Tax

At least $1,000 in refunds will be issued to individuals and business houses who overpaid on their 1961 city income tax, Council was advised Monday night by Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson.

To pay the refunds, Council requested legislation for its meeting next Monday night providing the $1,000 for deposit in a special "income tax refund account" on which the tax office can issue checks.

The refunds will go mainly to individuals and business houses who paid their tax in advance for all of 1961, although the law was repealed at the Nov. 7 election and "died" on Nov. 15, Wilkinson explained.

When a similar tax ordinance died in November 1958, some 529 refund checks were issued for a total of $3,635, he said. But the figure this time is not expected to reach half of the 1958 total—mainly because not so many persons overpaid their taxes in 1961, Wilkinson said.

The refunds will be made on specially-printed checks and duplicates will be retained in the City Hall office, Wilkinson said. The system has been approved by state examiners in other Ohio cities where refunds were necessary, he said.

The refund checks will be mailed in weekly batches as soon as the money is available, Wilkinson said. Closing out the tax office means that 6,000 accounts must be audited, he said.

In other business, Council ratified two recent appointments made by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet — Mrs. Ila Finney Johnston as a member of the Health Board and Judge Louis Tobin as a member of the Board of Thompson Park Commissioners. Both were named to new terms.

Council filed a notice from the County Election Board explaining that the city will be charged $3,103 as its share of 1961 election expenses, including $402 for voter registration.

Two bills against the city for auto damage were referred to the claims committee. Guy Danser of Wellsville R. D. 1 asked $31 and S. A. Thomas of Globe St. filed a $91 claim.

Mrs. Mary Hughey of Ohio Ave. filed a $61 bill for medical charges and other expenses she said resulted when she fell in a chuck-hole on Myrtle Ave. Solicitor Joseph Cooper advised Council that a resolution previously was enacted to pay Mrs. Hughey, but she refused to accept the money and asked her medical expenses were continuing. The claims committee was asked to investigate.

Councilman S. James Welch asked the street committee to investigate a request for removal of a tree on city property at Kinsey and Pickering Sts.

The session opened with invocation by Clerk Owen D. Kountz.

Teen-Agers Spot, Fight Fire Until Firemen Arrive

Two teen-agers who spotted a fire in a home on Main St., Wellsville, Monday night at 7:47 were credited today by Fire Chief Lewis for helping to keep the blaze down until firemen arrived.

The fire caused some $500 damage to the home of Nevin Williams, 1537 Main St. The family was not home at the time.

The two, Gene Wright, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wright, 933 Commerce St., and Nelson Montier of Toronto, were walking along the street when they spotted the smoke. Lewis said the two notified a neighbor to call the department and then forced open the door of the house.

The boys then grabbed buckets, filled them with water and began dousing the flames. Firemen said there still was fire beneath the floor of the home, but the boys did keep the flames from spreading faster. "They did a good job," Chief Lewis said.

Lewis said the fire was started by a faulty installation of a heating unit. He said an ordinary space heater was being utilized as a floor furnace. The heater had been placed down in a hole in the floor. It became overheated due to the cold weather and ignited the surrounding floor, Lewis said.

Lazy Exercises Strengthen Inner Muscles

It's cold outside. On chilly mornings there is a natural reluctance to climb out of the covers. Who can bound briskly out of bed and cheerfully take calisthenics on the cold floor!

All right, don't get up. There you are, lying on your back, warm and cozy, and feeling happy about the whole thing. Start s-t-r-e-t-c-h-i-n-g. There's science in the stretch. You put one set of muscles against another set and this tug of muscle gently prods the circulation.

Make it a long, drawn-out, tip to toe rouser. Push down with the heels, pulling toes toward instep ... stretch arms out at sides. Twist and turn and pull ... get the whole body into the stretch action. Relax ... yawn. Take two or three refreshing stretchers.

NOW TRY to bias stretch. Reach back with right arm, lift right leg a bit, crossing it over left leg ... and pull along the right side. Keep it smooth. Stretch on the bias along the left side. Easy does it. Continue until you feel pleasantly relaxed. Stretching is a natural. It makes you feel so good you may want to carry on. Fine! Still flat on your back, muscles relaxed, bend your knees. Soles of feet are now flat on bed. Gently expand the abdominal wall, muscularly, and then reverse the motion, contracting vigorously with the abdominal muscles.

Hold this up-and-in-pull for a slow count of six. Count out loud or just grunt. But don't hold your breath. The second time stretch out with arms as you pull up-and-in strongly. Breathe naturally.

From this same at ease position ... flat on back, knees bent, raise hips ever so slightly off bed, an inch or two at most. Gently tilt hips toward the right, and contract with the side-front muscles.

It helps to hold the contraction as you say out loud ... slim, svelte, pliant, supple, streamlined. Try this again, chanting belittle-the-middle. It will too! With this action you contract with the oblique muscles that span the side-front, and lo, you flatten the frontline.

REPEAT A few times on the same side. Then tilt hip toward left, contract with obliques, and hold. The held contraction does the toning.

Finish the session with a luxurious stretch. It is remarkable how well the tone of the muscles can be maintained by regular stretching, contracting exercises. This is an easy way to exercise, and a good way to start the day.

Send a stamped, self-addressed, long envelope for leaflet, "Wake Up And Stretch." Address your request to Ida Jean Kain in care of this newspaper. Postcard requests cannot be answered.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Beginners Often Held Back In Reading

In our country there are two opposing types of theory and practice concerning when to begin teaching the child to read. One of these aims to hold him back even as he enters the first grade "till he is ready to read."

The other aims to teach him to read in the kindergarten, even when Dr. Garry Meyers he's only 3 or 4. The former has been going strong for a number of years; the latter has developed rather recently. When most of you who are reading this entered the first grade, you expected to be taught to read some, so that after a few weeks you might proudly show your folks at home how well you learned. The chances are pretty good, however, that if you have a child or grandchild who entered first grade last fall, he was not given actual lessons in learning to read until after several weeks or months.

ALL THE CHILDREN in his class were supposed to be getting ready to read — growing older in age and experience. Some of them are not yet considered by their teacher ready to learn to read. Indeed, a few of them won't be by the end of this school year.

In my judgment, one of the most wasteful practices throughout the nation, promoted by a number of outstanding reading experts, is that of not letting many or all first grade children learn to read, because "they are not yet ready to read."

In contrast with the wide practice of depriving many children during the early weeks or months in school of learning to read, is another practice.

This is chiefly in the experience of the children. The danger is that we might easily impose such learning on him to the point of hindering more than helping his future learning progress. Let us allow him to grow up mingling normally with other children of his own age.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Why is it that in our society when a woman marries for money nobody thinks anything of it? They call her "practical" and congratulate her for making a solid selection. When a man does the same thing he is "a fortune hunter" and a louse. I'm an attractive bachelor with much to offer a woman. In fact I have everything but money. I say no marriage needs two rich people. It always seems such a waste when a Ford marries a du Pont.

In the last 10 years I've taken out hundreds of women — from 16 to 60. They all end up fishing for a financial statement. The women with money were quick to let me know that "everything is tied up in trust."

If it's respectable for a woman to marry for loot instead of love why can't a man? — ALSO PRACTICAL.

Dear Also: Your assumption that women who marry for money get society's approval is cockeyed. You further assume that every marriage is based on either love or loot. This is also an absurdity.

People who marry strictly for money (male or female) should get the top price because they earn every dime of it, brother. It's the hardest work there is.

Married Strangers

Dear Ann: What can I do about a husband like this? We both work and I get home at 5 p.m. He could get home at 5:30 with a little effort but he rarely makes it before 6.

Every night after supper he heads for the tavern and stays there till about 11. He tells everybody he does this because "his wife is never home." This is a lie. I only go to Navy Mothers Club, a private bingo party once a week, bowling league and to my mother's house. The reason I go out at night is because he's never home.

We've been married for 33 years and get along pretty well except for this problem. Can you suggest help? — CASS.

Dear Cass: You say you go because your husband is never home. He claims he goes because you're always gone. Why don't you both agree to stay home and get acquainted?

Since you're the one with the organized activities it's up to you to drop at least some of them and show your husband that he means more to you than bingo — or even your mother.

Auto Etiquette

Dear Ann: Seat belts are not yet compulsory in our state but I suspect it won't be long before they are. This poses a problem.

If a man and wife have a lady guest in the front seat the answer is obvious. The guest gets in next to the husband and the man and his wife use the seat belts. But if the guest is a gentleman does he sit on the outside with the seat belt and leave the wife in the middle, unprotected?

Sticky, isn't it? — V.H.

Dear V.H.: The gentleman guest should volunteer to sit in the middle unprotected. This means he gets into the car ahead of the woman which of course calls for a word of apology for violating a basic rule of etiquette.

Confidentially

TO BLUE STREAK: Telling him goodbye to "scare" him may be dangerous. Sometimes they leave.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Rancher Punches 1,800 Steers Into Livestock Center

WINNER, S.D. (AP)—Rancher Don Hight punched his 1,800 steers into this South Dakota livestock center a day ahead of schedule after a 65-mile cattle drive he figures saved $2,000 in trucking costs.

A predicted worsening of the rugged winter weather that stayed with him throughout the five-day drive prompted the cattleman and his seven drovers to bring the animals in Monday night.

Despite a weight loss caused by the extended drive, Hight expects to net about $360,000 from the sale, which begins Thursday.

Hight drove the herd off his 16,000-acre ranch at Westover in south central South Dakota Thursday morning. He had planned to arrive at this auction center tonight.

Today's weather forecast called for winds up to 40 miles an hour with a temperature of 15 below.

New Postal Rules Slated For 'Undeliverable' Mail

New changes concerning undeliverable second, third and fourth class mail will go into effect Wednesday, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

The new regulations provide for major changes. They include:

Second class mail, which includes newspapers and magazines, will continue to be forwarded to an addressee who has filed a new address and guarantees forwarding postage. The charge for furnishing a change of address notice to the publisher, however, now will be 10 cents or the return postage, whichever is greater.

Third class circulars, commonly known as "junk" mail, will no longer be forwarded. A mailer can get an undeliverable circular returned by printing "Return Requested" on it with a minimum charge of eight cents and a new address if known. Third and fourth class mail qualifying for catalogue rates will be forwarded.

Parcel post mail will be forwarded to a new address at another post office if the addressee has guaranteed forwarding postage. If it is not guaranteed, it will be returned to the sender as undeliverable, and the return postage will be collected. Fourth class mail will be forwarded to a new local address without additional charge.

In addition to the changes, Form 3457 relating to the notice of address changes to a sender and the pledging of forwarding postage will be discontinued.

The department also has advised mailers that the words "Return Requested" should be included on the article to be mailed immediately below the address of the sender if the return is desired.

Brown said third class mailers, who have mail with previous accepted endorsements and may run into hardship because of the new rates, should write the Post Office Department. Information concerning the new regulations can be secured at any post office.

Hearing Slated In Divorce Given To City Woman

Common Pleas Court Judge Joel H. Sharp has set a hearing Jan. 26 for Mrs. Eulalee E. Mullen Woomer of the Westfield Rd. to show cause why a divorce granted her Sept. 13, 1961, should not be set aside.

The judge's journal entry alleges Mrs. Woomer had been keeping house for Ronald H. Woomer, and residing there, about four months before her divorce became final.

The entry claims that on Sept. 8 she made application for blood tests for a marriage license by using her maiden name, Eulalee E. Steadman — five days before the divorce.

When her divorce became final Sept. 13, she went directly to Probate Court and made application for a marriage license with Woomer.

The entry added "this was all unbeknowning to the court at the time of the divorce."

The entry was made after the blood test date was called to the attention of Probate Court Judge Louis Tobin, who had required the couple to wait five days before issuing the marriage license. The couple was married Sept. 20.

UAW In New Drive As Bargaining Agent

CLEVELAND (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union has started another organizing drive in an attempt to become collective bargaining agent for 6,000 employees of Thompson Ramo Wooldridge, Inc.

This is the fifth organizing campaign UAW has conducted among Thompson employees since 1942.

The Aircraft Workers Alliance, an independent union, has been collective bargaining representative for Thompson employees since early 1940.

Since 1942 the National Labor Relations Board has conducted at least 10 elections among the employees, who chose an independent union in all but one.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Why is it that in our society when a woman marries for money nobody thinks anything of it? They call her "practical" and congratulate her for making a solid selection. When a man does the same thing he is "a fortune hunter" and a louse. I'm an attractive bachelor with much to offer a woman. In fact I have everything but money. I say no marriage needs two rich people. It always seems such a waste when a Ford marries a du Pont.

In the last 10 years I've taken out hundreds of women — from 16 to 60. They all end up fishing for a financial statement. The women with money were quick to let me know that "everything is tied up in trust."

If it's respectable for a woman to marry for loot instead of love why can't a man? — ALSO PRACTICAL.

Dear Also: Your assumption that women who marry for money get society's approval is cockeyed. You further assume that every marriage is based on either love or loot. This is also an absurdity.

People who marry strictly for money (male or female) should get the top price because they earn every dime of it, brother. It's the hardest work there is.

Married Strangers

Dear Ann: What can I do about a husband like this? We both work and I get home at 5 p.m. He could get home at 5:30 with a little effort but he rarely makes it before 6.

Every night after supper he heads for the tavern and stays there till about 11. He tells everybody he does this because "his wife is never home." This is a lie. I only go to Navy Mothers Club, a private bingo party once a week, bowling league and to my mother's house. The reason I go out at night is because he's never home.

We've been married for 33 years and get along pretty well except for this problem. Can you suggest help? — CASS.

Dear Cass: You say you go because your husband is never home. He claims he goes because you're always gone. Why don't you both agree to stay home and get acquainted?

Since you're the one with the organized activities it's up to you to drop at least some of them and show your husband that he means more to you than bingo — or even your mother.

Auto Etiquette

Dear Ann: Seat belts are not yet compulsory in our state but I suspect it won't be long before they are. This poses a problem.

If a man and wife have a lady guest in the front seat the answer is obvious. The guest gets in next to the husband and the man and his wife use the seat belts. But if the guest is a gentleman does he sit on the outside with the seat belt and leave the wife in the middle, unprotected?

Sticky, isn't it? — V.H.

Dear V. H.: The gentleman guest should volunteer to sit in the middle unprotected. This means he gets into the car ahead of the woman which of course calls for a word of apology for violating a basic rule of etiquette.

Confidentially

TO BLUE STREAK: Telling him goodbye to "scare" him may be dangerous. Sometimes they leave.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Postal Rules Slated For 'Undeliverable' Mail

New changes concerning undeliverable second, third and fourth class mail will go into effect Wednesday, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

The new regulations provide for major changes. They include:

Second class mail, which includes newspapers and magazines, will continue to be forwarded to an addressee who has filed a new address and guarantees forwarding postage. The charge for furnishing a change of address notice to the publisher, however, now will be 10 cents or the return postage, whichever is greater.

Third class circulars, commonly known as "junk" mail, will no longer be forwarded. A mailer can get an undeliverable circular returned by printing "Return Requested" on it with a minimum charge of eight cents and a new address if known. Third and fourth class mail qualifying for catalogue rates will be forwarded. Parcel post mail will be forwarded to a new address at another post office if the addressee has guaranteed forwarding postage. If it is not guaranteed, it will be returned to the sender as undeliverable, and the return postage will be collected. Fourth class mail will be forwarded to a new local address without additional charge.

In addition to the changes, Form 3457 relating to the notice of address changes to a sender and the pledging of forwarding postage will be discontinued. The department also has advised mailers that the words "Return Requested" should be included on the article to be mailed immediately below the address of the sender if the return is desired. Brown said third class mailers, who have mail with previous accepted endorsements and may run into hardship because of the new rates, should write the Post Office Department. Information concerning the new regulations can be secured at any post office.

Hearing Slated In Divorce Given To City Woman

Common Pleas Court Judge Joel H. Sharp has set a hearing Jan. 26 for Mrs. Eulalie E. Muller Woomer of the Westfield Rd. to show cause why a divorce granted her Sept. 13, 1961, should not be set aside.

The judge's journal entry alleges Mrs. Woomer had been keeping house for Ronald H. Woomer, and residing there, about four months before her divorce became final.

The entry claims that on Sept. 8 she made application for blood tests for a marriage license by using her maiden name, Eulalie E. Steadman — five days before the divorce.

When her divorce became final Sept. 13, she went directly to Probate Court and made application for a marriage license with Woomer.

The entry added "this was all unbeknowning to the court at the time of the divorce."

The entry was made after the blood test date was called to the attention of Probate Court Judge Louis Tobin, who had required the couple to wait five days before issuing the marriage license. The couple was married Sept. 20.

Printers Get Data For School Vote

Copy for ballots and poll books to be used in a special Southern Local School District election on Feb. 13 were turned over to printers Monday.

The ballot copy was submitted to the Wilson Printing House, while the Columbus Blank Book Co. was given the poll book copy. Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the County Election Board, said.

Meanwhile, the board also has notified the Jefferson County Election Board to make arrangements to conduct the election in the Brush Creek precinct of the school district, O'Hanlon said.

Presiding judges in the precincts will be notified to pick up election supplies in the board's East Liverpool office and to return them here.

They also will be told to telephone the results to the board's office immediately after the votes have been counted.

The election will determine whether the Franklin area of the school district should be permitted to withdraw and unite with school districts in Carroll County.

UAW In New Drive As Bargaining Agent

CLEVELAND (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union has started another organizing drive in an attempt to become collective bargaining agent for 6,000 employees of Thompson Ramo Wooldridge, Inc.

This is the fifth organizing campaign UAW has conducted among Thompson employees since 1942.

The Aircraft Workers Alliance, an independent union, has been collective bargaining representative for Thompson employees since early 1940.

Since 1942 the National Labor Relations Board has conducted at least 10 elections among the employees, who chose an independent union in all but one.

Rancher Punches 1,800 Steers Into Livestock Center

WINNER, S.D. (AP)—Rancher Don Hight punched his 1,800 steers into this South Dakota livestock center a day ahead of schedule after a 65-mile cattle drive he figures saved $2,000 in trucking costs.

A predicted worsening of the rugged winter weather that stayed with him throughout the five-day drive prompted the cattleman and his seven drovers to bring the animals in Monday night.

Despite a weight loss caused by the extended drive, Hight expects to net about $360,000 from the sale, which begins Thursday.

Hight drove the herd off his 16,000-acre ranch at Westover in south central South Dakota Thursday morning. He had planned to arrive at this auction center tonight.

Today's weather forecast called for winds up to 40 miles an hour with a temperature of 15 below.

Buckeyes, Cincy Lead Poll Again

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ohio State, one of the two major college basketball teams still unbeaten, maintained its unblemished record with the sports writers and broadcasters, too, receiving first-place votes on all ballots cast this week in The Associated Press poll.

Cincinnati and Kentucky held firmly to their second and third places, respectively. All others jockeyed positions although none of last week's top 10 fell out of the select group.

The University of Southern California, twice victors over California over the weekend, advanced two notches to fourth place. Kansas State and Villanova each dropped a berth to fifth and sixth, respectively. Kansas State lost to Colorado Saturday 75-61 and Villanova was knocked off the unbeaten list by West Virginia 88-82.

Mississippi State, which remained undefeated by shading Auburn 51-48 for its 10th triumph, jumped two places to seventh. Bowling Green climbed to ninth while Duquesne dropped a notch to eighth and Duke fell two positions to 10th.

Madison's Gain, EL's Loss . . .

Here's a case where East Liverpool's loss is Madison (O.) High's gain. Gary Ward, a former East Liverpool athlete who began his basketball career at Westgate Junior High, is the star of the Madison Blue Streaks, a school located near Geneva.

Ward, who played under coach Dale Wilson, left East Liverpool after his freshman year and was a regular at Westgate.

There is no doubt that Coach Jim Harris would have enjoyed having Ward around. He stands 6-foot-2 now and is a senior. Last season he averaged 16 points per game and this season is hitting at a 20-point clip.

During his junior year, Ward was named to the coaches' first team in the Western Reserve League.

Strang Eyes Kentucky Job . . .

MASSILLON High football coach Leo Strang, whose Tiger squads have compiled an amazing record of 39 victories, two losses and one tie, says he is being considered as a successor to Blanton Collier, who was fired last week as head football coach at the University of Kentucky.

Strang plans to meet with Kentucky officials at the NCAA meet.

This 'N That In Sports . . .

DON Cunningham, Bowling Green's able sports publicity director, informed us that Bob Dawson only made two free throws in the Falcon's 47-45 victory over Huston in the small college tournament final. However, the free throws came with just nine seconds left in the game and were the margin of victory.

He also reported that the former Potter star spent the tournament setting up plays and was a standout on defense. His .558 shoot percentage is the best on the squad.

KENNY Cunningham's 18 points were tops for the Cincinnati freshman team which won its fourth straight game Saturday night in the Queen City.

JIM PAYNTER, who starred in wrestling and track at East Liverpool, is a member of the varsity basketball team at Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, Mass. A junior at Eastern Nazarene, Paynter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Paynter, 624 Oak St.

TWO DISTRICT youths are members of the varsity and junior varsity wrestling teams at Western Reserve Academy in Hudson, Ohio.

Chuck Gerace, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Gerace, 6 Forsythe Pl., is a member of the varsity squad while Dave Ingram, son of Mrs. Helen Y. Ingram, George Ave., Chester, is a member of the junior varsity mat squad.

RICK Sygar, the shifty back of the year in Ohio who led Niles to the state title, is leaning towards either Michigan or Georgia Tech, while his teammate Dennis Flanagan is interested in Michigan or Notre Dame.

Reports Are Heard At Sportsmen's Club
A progress report on a project of planting food and cover for wildlife in the spring was heard at a meeting of the Chester-Newell Farmers and Sportsmen's Club Monday night at Chester City Hall.

Ira Van Fossan said the ground on the club's farm has been bulldozed. An order has been placed for 400 trees for restocking the ground late in March.

Carl Graham, president, conducted business. Eleven attended. The next meeting is Feb. 5.

Rookie Pro Routs Foes In LA Open

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—A rookie with only six months experience on the tournament trail has won the first major prize of his professional golfing career, the $45,000 Los Angeles Open.

Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., routed the older, more established pros Monday with a tournament record nine-under-par 62 and 72-hole total of 268. A pro barely a year, Rodgers left his nearest challengers behind by nine strokes and carried home $7,500.

It was the widest margin of victory since Mike Souchak piled up the same score over Billy Casper and Doug Ford in the Motor City Open at Northville, Mich., in August 1959.

Rodgers' round cracked the 36-year-old tournament record of 63 shared by Tommy Bolt (1956) and Ken Venturi (1959) and erased the 72-hole score of 272 set by Lloyd Mangrum in 1956.

Rodgers' previous fame was limited. He won the national collegiate championship as a sophomore in 1958 at the University of Houston. He was low amateur in the Los Angeles Open in 1960.

Bloor's Pharmacy and George Bright's share the lead today in the City Basketball League after coming up with victories in Monday night's action at Westgate gym.

Bloor's scored a 63-56 victory over Professional Mercantile Collection and Bright's stayed in first place with a 74-67 decision over Wellsville. The top two teams have 3-1 records.

Alex's "Oldtimers" came from behind to nip the Newell Merchants, 52-50. The victory gives Alex's a 2-2 mark while Newell has failed to gain the win column in four outings.

Carl Anderson turned in a 23-point night to pace Bloor's who were behind at the end of the City Cage League.

All-American Dischinger Scores 45

In Purdue Win; Nash Sparks 'Cats

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
While Ohio State was idle Monday night, All-American Terry Dischinger pumped in 45 points as Purdue scored a home court victory over Illinois; Minnesota outscored Indiana 104-100 at Minneapolis; Iowa's Don Nelson set a Hawkeye record in the 74-60 decision over Northwestern at Iowa City; and Wisconsin outlasted Michigan State 83-78 on the Spartans' floor.

It was a night for records. Nelson's 36 points gave him a career total of 1,206 and an all-time Iowa high. Minnesota's 104 points was a school scoring mark.

At Vanderbilt, Cotton Nash of Kentucky scored 31 points in leading the nationally 3rd-ranked Wildcats over the Commodores 77-68 in their Southeastern Conference match.

Gene Engel packed a lot of punch in the closing moments, sparking Virginia to a 98-95 Atlantic Coast conference victory over South Carolina. Engel snapped a 92-92 tie on a pair of free throws with 49 seconds to go, then clinched it with a layup.

St. Louis, struggling through a highly disappointing season, won its first Missouri Valley Conference game in three starts, 81-59 over Tulsa. Iowa State's steadiness enabled it to beat an erratic Oklahoma State squad, 47-42, in the Big Eight.

Other results—Furman 59, The Citadel 51; Oklahoma 56, Missouri 52; Louisiana State 76, Georgia 57; Tulane 59, Florida 47; Auburn 64, Mississippi 58; Murray 82, Eastern Kentucky 80; Clemson 75, Florida State 69; Providence 79, Massachusetts 45; St. John's (NY) 108, Bridgeport 84.

3 Teams Remain Unbeaten

All-State Spires Shoots Into District Point Lead

Making a determined bid to retain the berth he was accorded on last year's All-Ohio squad, Stanton Local's Don (Wilt) Spires has shot to the top of the list among the district's highest average scorers.

Spires, 6-6 center, has averaged 22.3 points a game in the Irondelet school's eight consecutive victories.

The towering senior led Stanton to its first unbeaten season last year and was named on the Class A All-Ohio team — only junior to turn the trick.

Spires has poured in 179 points this season, while teammate Bob Mills has netted 134. Coach Harry Diehl's Raiders are due for a rest tonight, having an open date. They return to action Friday night against invading Smithfield.

Spires wrestled the scoring lead away from Newell's Dave Bell in weekend action, with the Stanton Local star hitting 26 in a victory at Wayne. Bell shows a 21.0 average.

Next in line are United's Jerry Schaffer and Mick Staley of Newell, each hitting at a 20-plus clip.

Wellsville's Steve Baldwin shows 94 points in five of Wellsville's seven games. The 6-6 junior center missed two with an injured ankle.

Sporting the top record in the district is Midland High's Leopards with 11 wins in a row, the last two over Section 8 opponents.

Government Asked To Hold Off In NCAA-AAU Struggle

By DON WEISS
CHICAGO (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association has urged the White House to hold off a possible federal investigation of its power struggle with the national AAU until "all avenues of negotiations are exhausted," executive director Walter Byers said today.

"The report I gave to White House representatives was that I, personally, felt that intervention by the federal government, from either the executive or legislative branches, should come as a last resort," Byers told The Associated Press.

"If it develops that a reasonable solution to these difficulties cannot be obtained, then I am sure the colleges will be the first to welcome the government's help."

Byers' confirmation to the Oakland Tribune's report that President Kennedy has been urged by several West Coast senators to intervene came in the wake of another step in the NCAA-AAU fight, this one involving track and field.

Opening the week-long NCAA convention, Byers announced Monday that the NCAA had been petitioned by track coaches to take the lead in formation of a U.S. track and field federation that would greatly reduce AAU influence in the sport.

A similar federation has been proposed by the NCAA in basketball in the continuing struggle over representation to the international bodies in both sports.

Colleges, together with high schools and armed forces, have said the AAU has done a poor job in its conduct of affairs in basketball and track and field, particularly in regard to international matters.

The proposed federation would be composed of representatives of the NCAA, AAU, armed forces and high schools. A similar federation in which the YMCA would be included has been proposed by the NCAA in basketball.

If the struggle can't be settled among the two groups, the international organizations in the respective sports would hold the final authority.

Tigers Battle Once-Beaten Central

Wellsville High bids to exercise the winning touch it found last week in swinging against once-beaten Steubenville Central Catholic tonight at the new $1½ million Diocesan Community Arena in Steubenville.

The Tigers won over Toronto Friday night to snap a four-game losing streak and will carry a 2-5 record into tonight's Sectional AA battle.

Reserve action will get underway at 7, with the varsity tipoff set for about 8:30.

Steubenville Central (6-1) has been cutting quite a figure in the final years of Coach Francis Sebring. The Crusaders bowed to Big Red, 63-55, in a city series game Saturday night. Big Red was forced to come from behind to win. Sebring announced his resignation as head mentor before the season got underway.

Coach Jack McDewitt of Wellsville High saw the Crusaders in action against Big Red and came away impressed with their shooting and defensive ability.

McDewitt reported he plans no changes in the Tiger lineup that bagged the win over Toronto. It includes Steve Baldwin, 6-6, at center, and Jim Powell, Forrest Harris, Roger Ours and Ed Nelson.

Sebring's lineup for Central will include co-captains Sam Fornagaglio, 6-foot, and Joe Drosak, 6-foot, Bill Farrett, 6-3, Tom Chmielowski, 5-10, all seniors, and Danny Abramowicz, 5-10 junior.

Wellsville 8th Grade Routs East Junior
Wellsville's eighth grade squad made it 3-0 by routing East Junior High, 48-22, Monday at Wellsville.

Criss Thornton popped in 14 points to lead the winners while Dan Roach scored 11 for the East Junior five.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's 1961 state high school basketball champions are having their ups and downs this infant season.

Portsmouth's Trojans, kings in Class AA, have lost seven of eight starts. Practically all the river city's talent disappeared via the diploma route last June.

But Class A Ayersville, intent on staying on the throne, is still rolling. The Defiance County powerhouse has won 13 straight this season—for 43 in a row over the last two campaigns and a three-year record of 72 of 73.

In the opening Associated Press poll of the year today, Ayersville and Cleveland East Tech were tabbed as tops in their divisions.

The scintillating Scarabs, state champs in 1958 and 1959 and runner-up in 1960, have won eight in a row, averaging 77 points per game, and the only close game has been a 46-42 nod over Akron Central.

Ayersville is outpointing the foe 64 to 36, with All-Ohio star Dan Neff going at a 21.5 clip.

Hamilton Taft, with nine straight including the lone loss inflicted on Middletown, is second in the Class AA ratings and the ever-threatening Middies are third. After that there's a big dropoff in points among the top 10 teams.

Ayersville was a standout in the abbreviated Class A voting, with Fostoria St. Wendelin (9-0) taking second place. No attempt was made to rate the remaining teams in the opening poll.

NFL Attendance Hits Record High In 1961

By JACK HAND

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Surging National Football League attendance hit a record high of 3,986,159 in 1961 with an average crowd of 40,675 at each of 98 regular season games.

"We are enthusiastic about the general balance of our attendance," said Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

From 1952 to 1959, Los Angeles was very successful with big crowds of 70,000 and 75,000 accounting for a good share of our attendance. Although the Rams were not utilizing their big-gest stadium in the league to full capacity, our attendance still went up. That is a healthy trend. We are sorry we missed by only 14,000 from hitting the 4 million mark."

Unofficial Associated Press figures showed that Cleveland led the league with 426,886, followed by New York with 423,949 and Philadelphia with 412,318. The biggest single turnout was 80,455 at Cleveland for the Nov. 26 game with New York.

The re-election of Rozelle was no surprise because the league has enjoyed unprecedented success in his regime. He just finished the second year of an original three-year term following his election as a compromise choice at the stormy 1960 meeting. Although Rozelle received no salary increase, it was expected that adjustments would be made after current problems have been resolved.

Dressen Back In Game As Minor League Head

Charlie Dressen, fiery, outspoken 63-year-old peppercorn, was back in baseball today for his 30th consecutive year as a manager or coach in the majors and minors.

Fired as manager of the Milwaukee Braves at the tailend of the 1961 season, Dressen rejoined the Braves system Monday, signing on as field boss of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League and extending an unbroken string of managing or coaching jobs that began in 1932.

While Dressen left the unemployed ranks, equally outspoken Carl Furillo, one of the stars for Dressen's Dodger teams of the early 1950s, remained on the outside after Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick denied he is being blacklisted by major league clubs.

Dressen, connected with baseball in some capacity since he began playing in 1919, said he could have had "four or five" jobs managing Triple A teams, but liked the Toronto offer best. He noted Toronto is considered as a possible addition if and when the majors expand again.

Furillo, dropped by the Los Angeles Dodgers midway in the 1959 season when he refused to report to their minor league club at Spokane, has been trying to hook on with a major league club as a player, coach or scout.

A former National League batting champion with a .344 average in 1953, the 39-year-old outfielder claims he is being blacklisted by all major league teams.

Ohio State, one of the two major college basketball teams still unbeaten, maintained its unblemished record with the sports writers and broadcasters, too, receiving first-place votes on all ballots cast this week in The Associated Press poll.

Cincinnati and Kentucky held firmly to their second and third places, respectively. All others jockeyed positions although none of last week's top 10 fell out of the select group.

The University of Southern California, twice victors over California over the weekend, advanced two notches to fourth place. Kansas State and Villanova each dropped a berth to fifth and sixth, respectively. Kansas State lost to Colorado Saturday 75-61 and Villanova was knocked out of the unbeaten list by West Virginia 88-82.

Mississippi State, which remained undefeated by shading Auburn 51-48 for its 10th triumph, jumped two places to seventh. Bowling Green climbed to ninth while Duquesne dropped a notch to eighth and Duke fell two positions to 10th.

Madison's Gain, EL's Loss . . .

Here's a case where East Liverpool's loss is Madison (O.) High's gain. Gary Ward, a former East Liverpool athlete who began his basketball career at Westgate Junior High, is the star of the Madison Blue Streaks, a school located near Geneva.

Ward, who played under coach Dale Wilson, left East Liverpool after his freshman year and was a regular at Westgate.

There is no doubt that Coach Jim Harris would have enjoyed having Ward around. He stands 6-foot-2 now and is a senior. Last season he averaged 16 points per game and this season is hitting at a 20-point clip.

During his junior year, Ward was named to the coaches' first team in the Western Reserve League.

Strang Eyes Kentucky Job . . .

MASSILLON High football coach Leo Strang, whose Tiger squads have compiled an amazing record of 39 victories, two losses and one tie, says he is being considered as a successor to Blanton Collier, who was fired last week as head football coach at the University of Kentucky.

Strang plans to meet with Kentucky officials at the NCAA meeting in New Orleans.

This 'N That In Sports . . .

DON Cunningham, Bowling Green's able sports publicity director, informed us that Bob Dawson only made two free throws in the Falcon's 47-45 victory over Huston in the small college tournament final. However, the free throws came with just nine seconds left in the game and were the margin of victory.

He also reported that the former Potter star spent the tournament setting up plays and was a standout on defense. His .558 shooting percentage is the best on the squad.

KENNY Cunningham's 18 points were tops for the Cincinnati freshman team which won its fourth straight game Saturday night in the Queen City.

JIM PAYNTER, who starred in wrestling and track at East Liverpool, is a member of the varsity basketball team at Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, Mass. A junior at Eastern Nazarene, Paynter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Paynter, 624 Oak St.

TWO DISTRICT youths are members of the varsity and junior varsity wrestling teams at Western Reserve Academy in Hudson, Ohio.

Chuck Gerace, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Gerace, 6 Forsythe Pl., is a member of the varsity squad while Dave Ingram, son of Mrs. Helen V. Ingram, George Ave., Chester, is a member of the junior varsity mat squad.

RICK Sygar, the shifty back of the year in Ohio who led Niles to the state title, is leaning towards either Michigan or Georgia Tech, while his teammate Dennis Flanagan is interested in Michigan or Notre Dame.

Reports Are Heard At Sportsmen's Club

A progress report on a project of planting food and cover for wildlife in the spring was heard at a meeting of the Chester-Newell Farmers and Sportsmen's Club Monday night at Chester City Hall.

Ira Van Fossan said the ground on the club's farm has been bulldozed. An order has been placed for 400 trees for restocking the ground late in March.

Carl Graham, president, conducted business. Eleven attended. The next meeting is Feb. 5.

Rookie Pro Routs Foes In LA Open

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—A rookie with only six months experience on the tournament trail has won the first major prize of his professional golfing career, the $45,000 Los Angeles Open.

Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., routed the older, more established pros Monday with a tournament record nine-under-par 62 and 72-hole total of 268. A pro barely a year, Rodgers left his nearest challengers behind by nine strokes and carried home $7,500.

It was the widest margin of victory since Mike Souchak piled up the same score over Billy Casper and Doug Ford in the Motor City Open at Northville, Mich., in August 1959.

Rodgers' round cracked the 36-year-old tournament record of 63 shared by Tommy Bolt (1956) and Ken Venturi (1959) and erased the 72-hole score of 272 set by Lloyd Mangrum in 1956.

Rodgers' previous fame was limited. He won the national collegiate championship as a sophomore in 1958 at the University of Houston. He was low amateur in the Los Angeles Open in 1960.

All-State Spires Shoots Into District Point Lead

Making a determined bid to retain the berth he was accorded on last year's All-Ohio squad, Stanton Local's Don (Wilt) Spires has shot to the top of the list among the district's highest average scorers.

Spires, 6-6 center, has averaged 22.3 points a game in the Irontide school's eight consecutive victories.

The towering senior led Stanton to its first unbeaten season last year and was named on the Class A All-Ohio team — only junior to turn the trick.

Spires has poured in 179 points this season, while teammate Bob Mills has netted 134. Coach Harry Diehl's Raiders are due for a rest tonight, having an open date. They return to action Friday night against invading Smithfield.

Spires wrestled the scoring lead away from Newell's Dave Bell in weekend action, with the Stanton Local star hitting 26 in a victory at Wayne. Bell shows a 21.0 average.

Next in line are United's Jerry Schaffer and Mick Staley of Newell, each hitting at a 20-plus clip.

Wellsville's Steve Baldwin shows 94 points in five of Wellsville's seven games. The 6-6 junior center missed two with an injured ankle.

Sporting the top record in the district is Midland High's Leopards with 11 wins in a row, the last two over Section 8 opponents.

TV Evil Proves More Interesting

Virtue, dramatically speaking, is its own reward, not ours. Sin is more entertaining than piety. Television's bad guys are infinitely more interesting than the good guys.

These observations hardly are calculated to stagger the mind; but, like most accepted maxims, they should be put to the test occasionally. And that's just what I've been up to lately. The score? Bad Guys 4, Good Guys 0.

The programs selected for our survey were "The Investigators," "The Untouchables," "The Detectives" and "The Defenders."

OF THE VILLAINS represented on the panel, I'd say Sam Levene on "The Untouchables" and James Whitmore on "The Detectives" were by all odds the top bananas of the week.

Here was Levene playing Fay, a racketeer-muscling in on the milk business—handed jammed in to the side pockets of his jacket, homburg tilted over his brow, chipmunk eyes flashing the murderous command, golf-tee nose sniffing delicately at the flower in his lapel, a voice that used to be Nathan Detroit's now snapping out gruff threats ("Sally, you're liable to wind up like your brother! Dead!").

Mr. Levene—like Paul Muni, James Cagney and Humphrey Bogart before him—knows how to ride the back seat of a speak-easy-limousine. You bracket yourself between two thugs and carry an air of what you might call hunched confidence.

Sam Levene is the only actor I know who can hunch both his shoulders and his eyebrows. He also is first rate at the mirror; leaps at every chance to adjust the bow tie.

ON HAND, too, was June Havoc, playing his girl friend, Sally. This lady, who gets more attractive and more accomplished with the years, can keep a dead (and beautiful) pan through the heaviest going.

Why does she love Mr. Levene? "It isn't easy to find someone else who likes sauerkraut for breakfast."

What is her attitude toward danger? "So, the Salvation Army gets my diamonds."

How does she announce her intentions? "It's a gun. It's little but it's lethal."

I can think of only one other actress who can pull off lines like those and get away with them, and that's Lauren Bacall.

JAMES WHITMORE, the following night, played a jewel thief who escaped the scene of the crime in the guise of a priest. Father Murphy and killer Murphy were equally convincing because Whitmore is blessed with a remarkable face.

The perfect clergyman, he looks like every priest I've ever run into. But then he can turn off the rugged innocence, draw down his upper lids, let his jaw sag and, Roman collar or no Roman collar, scare the socks off you.

The villains and pseudo-villains on "The Defenders" and "The Investigators"—Martin Balsam, Edward Andrews and Henry Jones—were all good actors who with Mr. Whitmore contributed mightily to their stories.

The heroes of these stories, though, were a bunch of sugar plums, mollycoddles, pipsqueaks and young fogies. They're the fellows you get stuck with on the commuter specials, talking about crabgrass, PTA and health foods. No sense of humor, not one of them. And they are given to noble sentiments.

"Who's dead?" asked Robert Taylor, rhetorically, on "The Detectives." "A nobody. Who mourns the dead? Nobody. That's why I'm angry."

And later: "I want Murphy alive. I want that more than I want my shield."

LOOK HERE. I just finished up what seemed like a lifetime stint with a grand jury and I can bear witness to the fact that law enforcement officers are a much more stimulating and abrasive lot than Robert Taylor, Robert Stack, James Franciscus and E. G. Marshall would lead us to believe.

Mr. Franciscus, hero of that last showing of the now-defunct "Investigators," is another of those lean, blond kids, who comb their hair the way Troy Donahue combs his; when Mr. Franciscus must visit the lowlife sections of town, as he did the other night, he wears a black turtle-neck sweater under his windbreaker.

In that outfit, and with those locks, he wouldn't last five minutes on the Bowery. Mr. Marshall, of "The Defenders," is given to saying things like, "The best defense is the truth."

He said it a couple of times during the program under consideration and then repeated it in the coming attractions.

What kind of legal eagle—or what kind of cop—is this? They seem to be the products of a divinity school run by Dale Carnegie.

ONE NIGHT recently, I performed an act of mercy for a neighbor of ours who was locked out of her apartment. Went down the fire escape, entered an open window, found myself in a darkened bedroom.

In the next room a pajama-clad couple sat eating a TV dinner and watching "Checkmate." Wrong apartment, obviously.

I now can tell you how a house-breaker feels. He feels lousy. And I'm all for him.

Fall Proves Fatal

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Head injuries received when he fell from a house in Lorain Saturday proved fatal Monday for Frank Pajacs, 73, of Lorain.

City's Postal Receipts Dip

By Only $499

Postal receipts here last year were $499 under the record receipts in 1960, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today in his annual report.

"The loss can more than be attributed to the fact that one of the utilities now mails its statements from Steubenville rather than East Liverpool.

"And this is a factor in the building of new facilities. The receipts do play a part in the department's planning," Brown commented.

Receipts from the sale of stamps, stamped paper and meter machines in 1961 totaled $269,027 compared to the 1960 record of $269,526.

Receipts were up in the first and fourth quarters and down in the other two quarters, Brown noted.

Here are the receipts by quarters with these for last year listed first:

First, $66,071 in 1961 and $62,545; second, $54,602 and $57,087; third, $72,332 and $75,363, and fourth, $76,020 and $74,328.

The receipts in 1956 were $227,951. Twenty-five years ago, receipts were $105,893.

"Yet we still are using the facilities of the 1908 building where space and facilities are at such a premium. Space hasn't matched the growth of the receipts."

Cancellations during December compared favorably to 1960 although slightly less. The order in which dates fall before Christmas has a tendency to increase or decrease cancellations.

With over 40 postal meters in use, the metered mail showed an increase over 1960.

Fees for the 44,000 money orders written at the downtown office totaled $10,600. The money orders represented a volume of $806,000, the postmaster said.

Brown pointed out that a new concept in mailing schedules went into effect throughout Ohio in October. East Liverpool now receives and dispatches all out-of-town mail through a sectional center in Steubenville without having direct contact with Salem, Rochester, Pittsburgh and Steubenville as it did in the past.

"The same deterrent to better service still is present. The present Post Office building is outmoded for the operations required," the postmaster declared. "With a new system called 'fusing' being introduced to help handle the Christmas 'rush,' Brown pointed out each carrier had 12 special cartons to use for sorting the mail on his route. It caused a terrific space problem.

The addition of a new rural route in October also helped to overtax the already limited equipment space, he added.

"Maybe this is the year for East Liverpool. Many new facilities have been erected in the area," Brown said.

He pointed out surveys have been made and options were taken on some W. 7th St. property but they lapsed. The regional real estate officer in Cincinnati has no solution to the problem as yet.

The postmaster said postal officials have examined other sites but they apparently are not suitable. The department requires about 65,000 square feet of space for a building and parking facilities, he said.

$6,266 Still Required In Sale Of Yule Seals

LISBON — Eighty-one percent of the goal has been collected in the annual Christmas seal campaign of the Columbiana County Public Health League, according to Miss Lillian Schroeder, executive director.

A total of $26,734 of the goal of $33,000 has been collected, leaving $6,266 still required.

A breakdown showing the townships, amounts collected and goals include:

Butler and Knox — $988.57, ($1,200); Center — $2,100.33, ($2,400); Elkrun — $200 ($225); Fairfield — $2,851.92, ($3,300); Franklin and Wayne — $127.80 ($200); Hanover — $589.64 ($675); Liverpool and St. Clair — $7,135.38 ($9,000); Madison — $183.21 ($200); Middleton — $375.76 ($450); Perry — $5,415.75 ($7,200); Salem — $1,285.43 ($1,500); Unity — $2,697.74 ($3,200); Washington — $415.75 ($575); West — $372 ($475) and Yellow Creek — $1,953.26 ($2,400).

Engineers Sift Plan To Regulate Lake Water Level

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The U. S. Corps of Engineers is studying the feasibility of setting up a plan to regulate the water levels of lakes Michigan, Huron and Erie, says the executive director of the Great Lakes Commission.

Marvin Fast, Ann Arbor, Mich., told an Ohio State University natural resources seminar that the plan developed would have to best serve all water uses.

"Since climate controls the natural changes of the lakes, there is little that we can do to control the levels," Fast said. "However, some degree of control is possible."

Lake Superior has had a plan regulating water outflow since 1922 and fluctuations have been reduced to a range of 1½ feet.

Fast told the seminar that water quality and intergovernmental cooperation, along with the water levels, are the major problems facing groups who must manage the Great Lakes - St. Lawrence River system.

Mayor Picks Minister In Library Board Post

John N. Mostoller, pastor of the First Church of Christ, today was appointed to the Board of Trustees of Carnegie Public Library to serve out the unexpired term of William W. Watkin, who resigned.

The minister's appointment to the term which ends Dec. 31, 1964, was announced by Mayor Bert H. Goodballet after receiving Watkin's resignation, which also is effective today.

Watkin, 605 Edgewood Ave., is a former safety-service director. He told the mayor he resigned because he has been in ill health recently. In addition, transportation to the board's meetings is a problem because of recent changes in West End bus service, Watkin said.

CLEVELAND (AP) — James I. Rummel, 31, of Burton Lake, fourth member of a gang charged with a $2,200 Kent bank robbery, was in Cuyahoga County jail today in default of $5,000 bail. He faces grand jury action.

FBI agents arrested Rummel Monday morning in Burton Lake on charges stemming from the Nov. 1 holdup of the Portage National Bank branch in Kent.

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Trumbull County has recorded its first traffic death this year. Arlington B. Vaughn, 65, of Bazetta was struck by a truck on Ohio 88 Monday and killed.

Bryan Man Heads State School Board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Board of Education began its seventh year of operation Monday by electing a charter member of the 23-member group its new president.

Wayne E. Shaffer, 39, a Bryan attorney, was selected president, and another charter member, Francis W. Spicer, an Akron attorney, was named vice president. Neither was opposed.

Nine new members were administered the oath of office by Supreme Court Chief Justice Carl V. Weyandt.

A proposal by Ray W. Kimmey of Dayton launched the board on the road of determining long range financial requirements of Ohio's schools. The suggestion, which was approved, calls for the formation of a special committee which will prepare budget estimates for Ohio schools through 1970.

The board also approved standards governing state financial aid for school districts which offer instruction by educational television. The regulations will enable about one-half of the state's school districts to receive an estimated $315,000 in state aid because they offer instruction by television.

A new federal program involving payment of teacher salaries for an adult education civil defense course also was approved by the board.

The board served notice of intent to revoke the charters of six high schools, all on charges of violations of minimum standards. They include Union, Savannah and Butler, all in Richland County. The charters would be revoked no later than June 30.

In other actions, the board: —Approved a special state subsidy of $2,800 for North Bass Island District in Lake Erie which has one teacher and 10 pupils and has been operating at a loss.

—Approved 1962 county school board budgets totaling $4.8 million, of which $2.3 million is state funds.

—Received from Paul Walker, Columbus board member, a package of background information about the Ohio High School Athletic Association. He said lawsuits challenging the legality of the group had cast "a cloud on the integrity" of the voluntary group which controls athletic policies of most public and private high schools in Ohio. Walker said the group was "a fine, voluntary, grassroots organization."

Ohio Affected On Uniform Milk Price Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of Ohio will be affected by an agriculture department move to bring about greater uniformity in producer prices of fluid or bottling milk in 36 midwestern markets operating under federal marketing orders.

The department Monday called a hearing in Chicago Jan. 17-19 to consider proposals to establishing a common basic formula for determining producer prices in these regulated markets. At present, the formulas differ somewhat by individual markets.

Under the orders, the secretary of agriculture sets minimum prices which handlers are required to pay dairymen. The department does not set retail prices.

Areas involved in the orders include: Greater Wheeling, W. Va.; greater Cincinnati, Dayton, Springfield, and Columbus, Ohio; North-eastern Ohio; North Central Ohio; Toledo; Ohio Valley; Fort Wayne, Ind., and greater Youngstown-Warren, Ohio.

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The bribery trial of Trumbull County Democratic Chairman Frank A. Cickelli is to start next week because of the illness of the state's star witness.

Cickelli was one of seven persons indicted last September for shaking down Ferrera and other contractors who were successful bidders on a $4.5 million city sewer project.

Out Of The Air

ALAN GILL

TV Evil Proves More Interesting

Virtue, dramatically speaking, is its own reward, not ours. Sin is more entertaining than piety. Television's bad guys are infinitely more interesting than the good guys.

These observations hardly are calculated to stagger the mind; but, like most accepted maxims, they should be put to the test occasionally. And that's just what I've been up to lately. The score? Bad Guys 4, Good Guys 0.

The programs selected for our survey were "The Investigators," "The Untouchables," "The Detectives" and "The Defenders."

OF THE VILLAINS represented on the panel, I'd say Sam Levene on "The Untouchables" and James Whitmore on "The Detectives" were by all odds the top bananas of the week.

Here was Levene playing Fay, a racketeer muscling in on the milk business—hands jammed into the side pockets of his jacket, homburg tilted over his brow, chipmunk eyes flashing the murderous command, golf-tee nose sniffing delicately at the flower in his lapel, a voice that used to be Nathan Detroit's now snapping out gruff threats ("Sally, you're liable to wind up like your brother! Dead!").

Mr. Levene—like Paul Muni, James Cagney and Humphrey Bogart before him—knows how to ride the back seat of a speakeasy limousine. You bracket yourself between two thugs and carry an air of what you might call hunched confidence.

Sam Levene is the only actor I know who can hunch both his shoulders and his eyebrows. He also is first rate at the mirror: leaps at every chance to adjust the bow tie.

ON HAND, too, was June Havoc, playing his girl friend, Sally. This lady, who gets more attractive and more accomplished with the years, can keep a dead (and beautiful) pan through the heaviest going.

Why does she love Mr. Levene? "It isn't easy to find someone else who likes sauerkraut for breakfast."

What is her attitude toward danger? "So, the Salvation Army gets my diamonds."

How does she announce her intentions? "It's a gun. It's little but it's lethal."

I can think of only one other actress who can pull off lines like those and get away with them, and that's Lauren Bacall.

JAMES WHITMORE, the following night, played a jewel thief who escaped the scene of the crime in the guise of a priest. Father Murphy and killer Murphy were equally convincing because Whitmore is blessed with a remarkable face.

The perfect clergyman, he looks like every priest I've ever run into. But then he can turn off the rugged innocence, draw down his upper lids, let his jaw sag and, Roman collar or no Roman collar, scare the socks off you.

The villains and pseudo-villains on "The Defenders" and "The Investigators"—Martin Balsam, Edward Andrews and Henry Jones—were all good actors who with Mr. Whitmore contributed mightily to their stories.

The heroes of these stories, though, were a bunch of sugar plums, mollycoddles, pipsqueaks and young fogies. They're the fellows you get stuck with on the commuter specials, talking about crabgrass, PTA and health foods. No sense of humor, not one of them. And they are given to noble sentiments.

"Who's dead?" asked Robert Taylor, rhetorically, on "The Detectives." "A nobody. Who mourns the dead? Nobody. That's why I'm angry."

And later: "I want Murphy alive. I want that more than I want my shield."

LOOK HERE. I just finished up what seemed like a lifetime stint with a grand jury and I can bear witness to the fact that law enforcement officers are a much more stimulating and abrasive lot than Robert Taylor, Robert Stack, James Franciscus and E. G. Marshall would lead us to believe.

Mr. Franciscus, hero of that last showing of the now-defunct "Investigators," is another of those lean, blond kids, who comb their hair the way Troy Donahue combs his; when Mr. Franciscus must visit the lowlife sections of town, as he did the other night, he wears a black turtle-neck sweater under his windbreaker.

In that outfit, and with those locks, he wouldn't last five minutes on the Bowery. Mr. Marshall, of "The Defenders," is given to saying things like, "The best defense is the truth."

He said it a couple of times during the program under consideration and then repeated it in the coming attractions.

What kind of legal eagle—or what kind of cop—is this? They seem to be the products of a divinity school run by Dale Carnegie.

ONE NIGHT recently, I performed an act of mercy for a neighbor of ours who was locked out of her apartment. Went down the fire escape, entered an open window, found myself in a darkened bedroom.

In the next room a pajama-clad couple sat eating a TV dinner and watching "Checkmate." Wrong apartment, obviously.

I now can tell you how a house-breaker feels. He feels lousy. And I'm all for him.

Fall Proves Fatal

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—Head injuries received when he fell from a house in Lorain Saturday proved fatal Monday for Frank Pajacs, 73, of Lorain.

City's Postal Receipts Dip By Only $499

Postal receipts here last year were $499 under the record receipts in 1960, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today in his annual report.

"The loss can more than be attributed to the fact that one of the utilities now mails its statements from Steubenville rather than East Liverpool.

"And this is a factor in the building of new facilities. The receipts do play a part in the department's planning," Brown commented.

Receipts from the sale of stamps, stamped paper and meter machines in 1961 totaled $269,027 compared to the 1960 record of $269,526.

Receipts were up in the first and fourth quarters and down in the other two quarters, Brown noted.

Here are the receipts by quarters with these for last year listed first:

First, $66,071 in 1961 and $62,545; second, $54,602 and $57,087; third, $72,332 and $75,563, and fourth, $76,020 and $74,328.

The receipts in 1956 were $227,951. Twenty-five years ago, receipts were $105,893.

"Yet we still are using the facilities of the 1908 building where space and facilities are at such a premium. Space hasn't matched the growth of the receipts."

Cancellations during December compared favorably to 1960 although slightly less. The order in which dates fall before Christmas has a tendency to increase or decrease cancellations.

With over 40 postal meters in use, the metered mail showed an increase over 1960.

Fees for the 44,000 money orders written at the downtown office totaled $10,600. The money orders represented a volume of $806,000, the postmaster said.

Brown pointed out that a new concept in mailing schedules went into effect throughout Ohio in October. East Liverpool now receives and dispatches all out-of-town mail through a sectional center in Steubenville without having direct contact with Salem, Rochester, Pittsburgh and Steubenville as it did in the past.

"The same deterrent to better service still is present. The present Post Office building is outmoded for the operations required," the postmaster declared.

With a new system called "fusing" being introduced to help handle the Christmas "rush," Brown pointed out each carrier had 12 special cartons to use for sorting the mail on his route. It caused a terrific space problem.

The addition of a new rural route in October also helped to overtax the already limited equipment space, he added.

"Maybe this is the year for East Liverpool. Many new facilities have been erected in the area," Brown said.

He pointed out surveys have been made and options were taken on some W. 7th St. property but they lapsed. The regional real estate officer in Cincinnati has no solution to the problem as yet.

The postmaster said postal officials have examined other sites but they apparently are not suitable. The department requires about 65,000 square feet of space for a building and parking facilities, he said.

$6,266 Still Required In Sale Of Yule Seals

LISBON — Eighty-one percent of the goal has been collected in the annual Christmas seal campaign of the Columbiana County Public Health League, according to Miss Lillian Schroeder, executive director.

A total of $26,734 of the goal of $33,000 has been collected, leaving $6,266 still required.

A breakdown showing the townships, amounts collected and goals include:

Butler and Knox — $988.37, ($1,200); Center — $2,100.33, ($2,400); Elkrun — $300 ($225); Fairfield — $2,851.92, ($3,300); Franklin and Wayne — $127.89 ($200); Hanover — $589.64 ($675); Liverpool and St. Clair — $7,135.38 ($8,000); Madison — $183.21 ($200); Middleton — $375.76 ($450); Perry — $5,415.75 ($7,200); Salem — $1,285.43 ($1,500); Unity — $2,697.74 ($3,200); Washington — $415.75 ($575); West — $372 ($475); and Yellow Creek — $1,953.26 ($2,400).

Mayor Picks Minister In Library Board Post

John N. Mostoller, pastor of the First Church of Christ, today was appointed to the Board of Trustees of Carnegie Public Library to serve out the unexpired term of William W. Watkin, who resigned.

The minister's appointment to the term which ends Dec. 31, 1964, was announced by Mayor Bert H. Goodball after receiving Watkin's resignation, which also is effective today.

Watkin, 605 Edgewood Ave., is a former safety-service director. He told the mayor he resigned because he has been in ill health recently. In addition, transportation to the board's meetings is a problem because of recent changes in West End bus service, Watkin said.

4th Robbery Suspect To Face Grand Jury

CLEVELAND (AP) — James I. Rummel, 31, of Burton Lake, fourth member of a gang charged with a $2,200 Kent bank robbery, was in Cuyahoga County jail today in default of $5,000 bail.

He faces grand jury action. FBI agents arrested Rummel Monday morning in Burton Lake on charges stemming from the Nov. 1 holdup of the Portage National Bank branch in Kent.

Killed In Trumbull

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Trumbull County has recorded its first traffic death this year. Arlington B. Vaughn, 65, of Bazetta was struck by a truck on Ohio 88 Monday and killed.

Bryan Man Heads State School Board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Board of Education began its seventh year of operation Monday by electing a charter member of the 23-member group its new president.

Wayne E. Shaffer, 39, a Bryan attorney, was selected president, and another charter member, Francis W. Spicer, an Akron attorney, was named vice president. Neither was opposed.

Nine new members were administered the oath of office by Supreme Court Chief Justice Carl V. Weyandt.

A proposal by Ray W. Kimmey of Dayton launched the board on the road of determining long range financial requirements of Ohio's schools. The suggestion, which was approved, calls for the formation of a special committee which will prepare budget estimates for Ohio schools through 1970.

The board also approved standards governing state financial aid for school districts which offer instruction by educational television. The regulations will enable about one-half of the state's school districts to receive an estimated $315,000 in state aid because they offer instruction by television.

A new federal program involving payment of teacher salaries for an adult education civil defense course also was approved by the board.

The board served notice of intent to revoke the charters of six high schools, all on charges of violations of minimum standards. They include Union, Savannah and Butler, all in Richland County. The charters would be revoked no later than June 30.

In other actions, the board:

—Approved a special state subsidy of $2,800 for North Bass Island District in Lake Erie which has one teacher and 10 pupils and has been operating at a loss.

—Approved 1962 county school board budgets totaling $4.8 million, of which $2.3 million is state funds.

—Received from Paul Walker, Columbus board member, a package of background information about the Ohio High School Athletic Association. He said lawsuits challenging the legality of the group had cast "a cloud on the integrity" of the voluntary group which controls athletic policies of most public and private high schools in Ohio. Walker said the group was "a fine, voluntary, grassroots organization."

Ohio Affected On Uniform Milk Price Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of Ohio will be affected by an agriculture department move to bring about greater uniformity in producer prices of fluid or bottling milk in 38 midwestern markets operating under federal marketing orders.

The department Monday called a hearing in Chicago Jan. 17-19 to consider proposals to establishing a common basic formula for determining producer prices in these regulated markets. At present, the formulas differ somewhat by individual markets.

Under the orders, the secretary of agriculture sets minimum prices which handlers are required to pay dairymen. The department does not set retail prices.

Areas involved in the orders include: Greater Wheeling, W. Va.; greater Cincinnati, Dayton, Springfield, and Columbus, Ohio; North-eastern Ohio; North Central Ohio; Toledo; Ohio Valley; Fort Wayne, Ind., and greater Youngstown-Warren, Ohio.

Bribery Trial Set To Start Next Week

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — The bribery trial of Trumbull County Democratic Chairman Frank A. Cickelli is to start next week because of the illness of the state's star witness.

Common Pleas Court Judge G. H. Birrell continued the trial Monday after he was told by the prosecution that Rocco Ferrera of Detroit, the witness, was under doctor's orders not to come here to testify. Ferrera is president of the Rocco Ferrera Construction Co.

Cickelli was one of seven persons indicted last September for shaking down Ferrera and other contractors who were successful bidders on a $4.5 million city sewer project.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

- Q. How can I prevent my paint brush from shedding bristles during the painting process?
- A. By first placing the brush bristles up and pouring some clear varnish into the base of the bristles. Keep the brush in an upright position until the varnish dries.
- Q. How can I keep my household sponges fresher and sweeter-smelling?
- A. Make a practice from time to time of soaking these sponges in cold salt water.
- Q. How can I prevent ribbon ends from fraying?
- A. By applying some colorless fingernail polish to the ribbon ends.
- Q. How can I remove odors from a frying pan?
- A. A little vinegar poured into the pan while it is still hot will remove the odor of fried onions, and also of fish. Another method is to sprinkle oatmeal in the pan
- and shake it over the flame until the meal begins to scorch.
- Q. How can I prepare a good onion soup?
- A. Chop two onions; place two ounces of butter in a pan and melt; put the onions in and fry until well done; pour a quart of boiling water into the pan, and season. To improve the flavor, add sliced bread and finely-chopped Swiss cheese.
- Q. What is the easiest way to raise wooden roof shingles so I can repair or replace them?
- A. Use the garden spade. The long, flat metal blade will let you get safely under the shingles. Press the handle down slowly.
- Q. How can I keep air circulating around stored vegetables?
- A. Buy wire baskets from a stationery, such as are used in offices for holding papers, and use these in your pantry to hold vegetables. They permit the air to circulate freely.
- Q. How can I do a good job of cleaning decorative candles?
- A. By sponging them with a piece of absorbent cotton dampened with alcohol.

MARSUPIALS

QUESTION: Are the kangaroo and the opossum the only animals that carry their young in a pouch?

ANSWER: Kangaroos and opossums belong to an order of animals called marsupials. All members of this order carry their young in a pouch, which is also called a marsupium.

The purpose of the pouch is to give protection to the young, which are very small and poorly developed at birth, until they are able to take care of themselves.

Marsupials are found only in America and Australia. In fact, the opossum, which lives mostly in the southern United States, is the only marsupial that lives in America.

Other Australian marsupials include wombats, bandicoots, koala bears, Tasmanian devils and Tasmanian wolves. All of them carry their young in pouches.

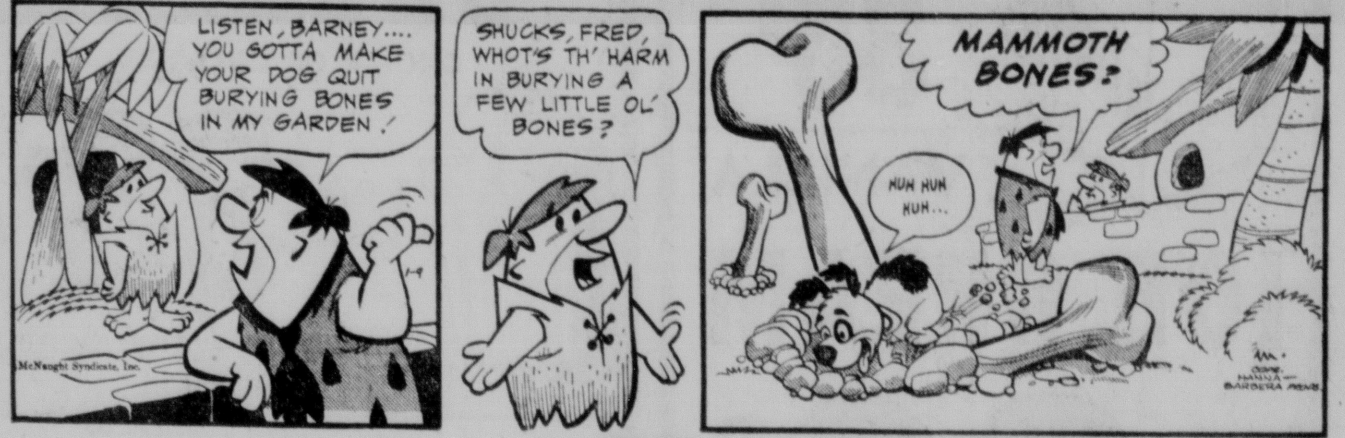

FOR YOU TO DO: A famed book called "Br'er Possup" was written by Joel Chandler Harris, who recalled the little animals from his boyhood in the South. Read the book and learn about opossums.

(D. Vasilakos of Rahway, N. J., wins $10 for this question. Send your question on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper.)
